FOREWORD

This volume of the Aurora marks an epoch in the history of the Michigan State Normal College, in that, for the first time, its publication passes from the hands of the Sophomore Class to those of the Senior Class—an official recognition, by Faculty and Students, of the status of the college as a four year institution.

To chronicle a Golden Age is the mission of a college annual—to perpetuate the memories of the halcyon days of life, the days of truest friendships, of gayest frolics, of happiest achievements; to renew forgotten inspirations; to restore neglected visions.

If, in the years to come, to turn these pages, brings back the sermons of great men, the themes of noble books, the strains of glorious music, this volume shall have served its purpose. If, with the days that pass, to look upon the pictures gathered here, brings back a picture of a fountain splashing in the moonlight against a mellow background of softly weathering stone, the flicker of a summer dress along a shady walk, the tinkle of pianos and bursts of joyous song, the compiling of this volume shall have made the world a brighter place in which to live.

Bessie Leach Priddy

TO
BESSIE LEACH PRIDY,
DEAN OF WOMEN
AND MOTHER OF US ALL.
THIS VOLUME IS LOVINGLY DEDICATED.

GREEN AND WHITE

Words by C. M. Elliott.

Music by Richard Owen.

I.

Alma Mater full of glory
Loved of every loyal son,
We are proud to tell the story
Of the work that thou hast done.
Rising grand above the Huron
Like a shining beacon light
Gleaming far across the nation
Wave thy colors, green and white.

Chorus:

The charm of the fields of summer
With the gleam of the winter's light
We will sing of the twain in a sweet refrain
The beautiful green and white.
Hail, Hail to the charm of summer!
Hail, Hail to the winter's light!
All hail to thee, our college dear
And thy colors, green and white.

II.

Alma Mater, kindly mother,
Sons and daughters honor thee
Joining hands with one another
Roll the song from sea to sea.
Oh what joyous memory fills us
When they fall upon our sight
For no other emblem thrills us
Like thy colors—Green and White.

Chorus:

PROFESSOR WILBUR F. BOWER

Head of the Department of Physical Education.

Professor Wilbur P. Bower, in general charge of our college athletics, is one of the most widely known men in his line of work in the United States. Bowen is a big man and every young fellow who comes here ought to meet him. Look him in the eye, squeeze his hand if you can, and don't bolt his classes too often. You can't get away with it anyway.

—The Normal College News.

JOHN H. McCULLOCH

Associate Professor of Physical Education.

"Doc" has just completed his second year at the Normal College, but those two years have made him a big man in the eyes of the men of the college. He's a man's man. His middle name is "pep." He "hits the line hard" and his men must do the same.

COACH ELTON RYNEARSON

Perhaps "Rynie" will never appear again in the pages of the AURORA. He goes next year to the Medical College at the University of Michigan. It will be long, however, before he is forgotten on the campus. It would be an old story to say that to him are due, to an immeasurable degree, the successes of this and past seasons. His smile will be missed when the score is rolling up next year. We would keep him if we could, but he has bigger things to do; and, to these bigger things, we reluctantly release him.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM HANSOR

FOOTBALL

The game of football at the Michigan State Normal College is one of the most popular sports. Even though small in numbers we have been able to compete with some of the strongest teams on the gridiron. This season's schedule has produced more enthusiasm toward the game than ever before in the history of the college. It is needless to say that the mass meetings held before each game were very effective. When our heroes went to meet their foe at Albion the students boarded the cars and backed them to the last minute, in spite of the fact that it was snowing hard during the entire game. The season closed when Hillsdale came here November 20 and defeated us with a score of 28-0. This was the biggest day of the season, known as "Gala Day," when all of our campus organizations displayed their college spirit in the parade around the town with their floats.

M. S. N. C. FIELD SONG

Words by Jos. L. Fisk.

Music by Geo. P. Becker.

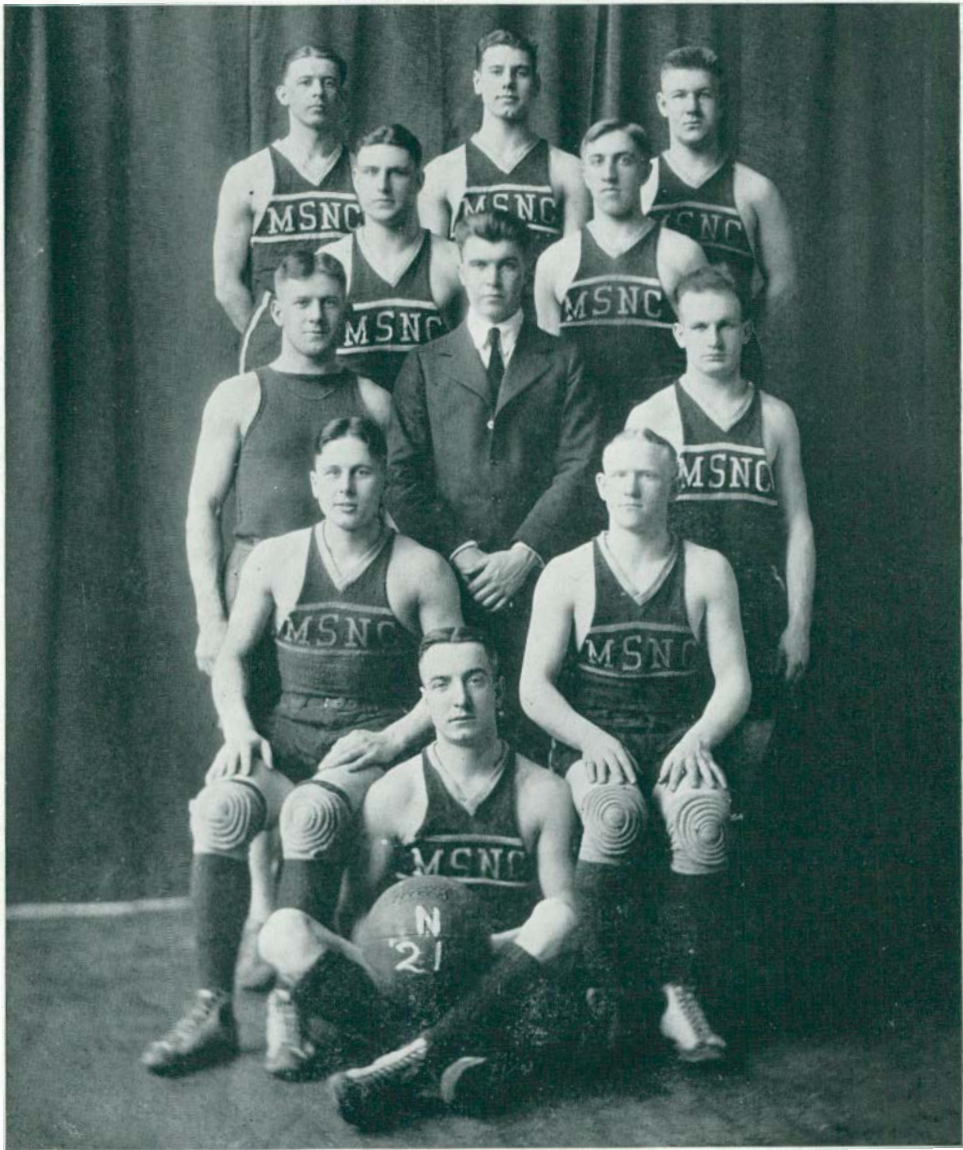

When our gallant Normal warriors
March to meet the foe,
Confident of victory we'll cheer them
As they go.
Green and white is flying, see our colors gay,
For we are going to win the day.

Chorus:—

Go, you Normals, we're for you
Just as long as skies are blue,
Go on to victory, dear M. N. C.
Rah, Rah, Rah!
Show them we are always there.
With a team that always dare,
To fight with all their might for dear old M. N. C.

Normal yells help conquer. Normal spirit wins the day.
Root for dear old Ypsi and we'll have things all our way;
When the whistle's sounded and the game is o'er,
We'll have the big end of the score.

Basketball is one of the most important sports of the Michigan State Normal College. We do our part in the other branches of athletics, but basketball is our banner game. With only three of our last year's men back coach Rynearson put out a winning team. Captain Williams was back in his old form and was always there playing the game. Austin was not known as an expert basket shooter, his main job was acting as a standing guard and keeping his opponent from becoming one. Osborn was a second year man and he grew to a very important place on the team. Not many of his opponents got the jump on him when the ball was put in play. Deakin will be remembered as the fastest man that M. S. N. C. has owned as a player of basketball for sometime. Wilkshire, entering school in time for the season, made a very fast man and was a great help to the team in running up its scores on the opponents. Walker showed his ability as a basketball player as well as a track athlete. Hole entered in the last of the seasons games and was right there when the ball came his way. Burrell and Mackin were both new men and made good on the floor this year. Crane is an all-around athlete. He takes part in all forms of athletics and shows the fight of the game every minute.

CAPTAIN BOYD WILLIAMS

Catchers—Erickson and Williams.
Pitchers—O'Hara, Shadford and Gough.
First Base—Hellenberg.
Second Base—Westcott
Third Base—Carlson.
Short-Stop—Hole.
Right Field—Sickles.
Center Field—Quinn.

Baseball has been one of the major sports at the Michigan State Normal College for sometime. Last year's schedule was a hard one but the team did their best in winning as many games as possible in the season. This year the prospects of a winning team were much better. Shadford is back from last year and showed decided improvement in pitching. Coach Rynearson has worked with the team every night of practice this year and this was evident when the team slipped a few extra scores in on Kalamazoo College and defeated them with a score of 9-8. With the coming of O'Hara as a pitcher the team was strengthened and "Pat" has hurled some fast balls at his opponents. Quinn, "Bob", is the old faithful center fielder who is sure to have the high hit flies fall into his glove. When a fly goes his way you will hear his opponents give a sigh for they know that it has gone into a well. Williams, "Bill," is as faithful on the diamond as he is on the basketball court; his ability as a captain is shown in his cool-headedness in times of emergency on the field. Hellenberg is occupying his old place on first base and is right on the job every minute during the game, spearing the balls as they come to him from the various parts of the field. Hole and Carlson are both old men at this game, and they both occupy important positions in the infield. Fox is out of his old position as short-stop and is now acting as the man that chases the balls in the left field. O'Hara is a new man at the Normal College but is a very important one when it comes to the baseball game. Westcott is one of the main men of the team and shows his ability in every game. Sickles is another new man this year and often helps "Ben" on first.

TRACK

Track and field sports have grown to be a very prominent part of the athletics at the Michigan State Normal College. With a number of the last year's men back the season was as successful as could be expected. Captain Walker is one of the best track athletes that has been with "Ypsi" for the past few years. Carpenter, Shawley, and Townsend are old men on the track and have displayed their ability very well this year. Coatta, Conat, Johnson and Roth are last year's men and have shown great improvements over last season's work. Coach McCulloch has been faithful with the men this year to the last minute. Even when the team was defeated at Kalamazoo "Doc's" smile did not wear off. The new men of the team, namely: Arbaugh, Beck, Jefferson, McKnight, McGrath, Stocum, Hanham and Winston have been on the job every minute fighting for their places. "Ypsi" always does her part at the inter-collegiates. M. A. C. is one of the big meets of the season, where the athletes from the various colleges compete for the honors of the year. The meet at Albion in the M. I. A. A. is restricted to the members of the association. This is undoubtedly the biggest day for athletics as baseball and tennis are at hand as well as track and field sports.

GIRLS' INDOOR MEET

The Eighteenth Annual Girls' Indoor Meet took place as usual in the Men's Gymnasium, March 12, 1921. The Sophomores won after a hard struggle, the score being 43-34.

This year for the first time, a preliminary meet was held at which the second teams in volley and basketball contested for the honors. The Freshmen won both games and also won an additional 5 points for having the largest number of girls who could jump three feet six inches. The Sophomores won 5 points for having the largest attendance at practices, thus making the score 11-5 in favor of the Freshmen before the meet proper began.

The Freshmen kept in the lead during the first part of the meet, but the Sophomores gradually forged ahead until they were four points in the lead in the next to the last event. The Freshmen still had a chance to win by one point, but they were unable to outplay their opponents in basketball; so the meet went to the Sophomores.

The outstanding events and those which showed a good deal of hard work were the Freshman figure marching and the Sophomore swedish. Kick ball, which was introduced last year, is evidently here to stay for it furnishes both fun and excitement. The Manager's Relay also provided a great deal of fun and is always a feature of the meet. The basketball game, the deciding event, proved intensely exciting as the two teams were well-matched and both were determined to win.

High Spots

AN ILLUSTRATED RESUME OF THE YEAR

Published by the Aurora Board, Michigan State Normal College. Raye Roberts Platt, Editor.
Ypsilanti, Michigan, June 1, 1921.

Editorial

"High Spots" is a summary of the leading events of the year and an attempt to collect the best that has been written during the year concerning those events. For the articles contained in this section the editors wish to acknowledge their indebtedness to the "Normal College News", from whose pages they have been largely selected.

"Bob"

There are three things necessary to the greatness of a college—funds, faculty and college spirit. The greatest of these is college spirit—that indefinable something that comes to every college man and woman if there be red blood in his body and loyalty in his heart. The true college man or woman holds his Alma Mater next dearest to his mother; and his devotion to her is the devotion of a child to the influences that have made for the best and highest in his life.

Loyalty is, perhaps, in human instincts, second to none. In every breast there lurks the smouldering embers ready to burst into a white heat at the touch of a master-hand. But the master-hand is not always at hand to coax the spark into flame. When it is absent, colleges become a humdrum of lifeless classes and bloodless traditions.

Like every other college, the Michigan State Normal College has experienced the ebb and flow of college spirit. Like everything else in the world it has felt the stagnating hand of the War. Its emergence from that stagnation was naturally slow and painful. The cry went out for a man who could lead.

In answer to that call, as if by miracle, came 'Bob' Speer. Young, vital, red-blooded, sincere, self-sacrificing, clear-headed, loyal, unassuming, he stepped naturally into the lead. His enthusiasm has proved irresistible and his whole-hearted devotion has made every man in the college his loyal disciple.

HIGH SPOTS

At the very beginning of the year he was unanimously elected president of the Men's Union. In that capacity he has been indefatigable. Everything that has gone out this year with the Men's Union label on it owes its origin to his fertile brain and its success to his indomitable will and his ceaseless energy. Gates that did not open before the charm of his manner fell shattered before the force of his arguments.

"Bob" Speer—student, loyalist, enthusiast—students and faculty love him as the exponent of all that is brightest and best in college life. Long may he live; and may his kind multiply and flourish. (Introductory Address Given by Raye R. Platt at Men's Union Banquet.)

ALBION DAY

Pep, unquenched and unquenchable, was the keynote of the Ypsilanti delegation to the Albion-M. S. N. C. game at Albion November 11. More than four hundred students and at least one hundred Ypsilanti citizens crowded to overflowing the five D. U. R. cars provided by the Men's Union and in addition, filled a long line of automobiles that was necessary to carry those whom the cars could not accommodate. From the moment that the delegation formed a column of fours at the Albion station, and led by a band of twenty-six pieces with Hellenberg twirling the baton at its head, marched up to the business section of the town, until the last student, defeated but undismayed, boarded the last car for the return trip, Ypsilanti was most vociferously on the map.

A day that begins all sunshine and autumn tang and ends with a blizzard of such whirling, blinding snow that at times the players are almost hidden from the bleachers is enough to quench the most exuberant spirit; but not a man or woman in the Ypsilanti delegation ever for a moment permitted the inclemency of the weather or the score in Albion's favor to dampen his enthusiasm. Every minute of the game was a fight for the men who carried the White and Green on the field and the crowd on the bleachers fought faithfully with the team assured that nothing short of the utmost in enthusiasm was worthy of those eleven men.

The day is one that will be remembered as long as lives a man or woman who was there; and the effect of those hours of college spirit will go far towards putting the Michigan State Normal College in its proper place not only in the hearts of the students but in the minds of the people of the state as well.

THE HISTORICAL PAGEANT

BY

JOHANNA ALPERMANN.

In colorful loveliness and impressive dignity there has nothing been staged by the Normal College equal in merit to the Historical Pageant given in Pease Auditorium the day before Thanksgiving.

The theme of this pageant, "Westward the course of Progress takes its way," found its initial and effective portrayal before the eyes of the assembling spectators in the beautiful back ground of the stage. On this a large painting was admirably executed by the Art department under the direction of Miss Goodison, three gallant Spanish galleons were seen riding the white-crested waves, their golden prows and wide spread sails reflecting the rosy hue of the sunset glow, toward which their brave captain was ever holding their course.

As the lights gleamed upon the opening scene of the pageant, the proud figure of the Columbus stood silent near his pictured fleet, while a white clad maiden read the gripping, dramatic lines of Joaquin Miller's "Columbus".

He gained a world.

He gave that world its greatest lesson.

On—sail on!"

When the maid had vanished, forward Columbus strode, proudly emplanting the banner of his king and queen upon the newly found shore. He was joined by a French and an English explorer, who with drawn swords, also erected their standards "in that New World until then held undisputed by the children of the Forest".

For a proud moment the three figures stood motionless, then, as they slowly stepped into the background, "the children of the forest" came creeping up through the trees, a mighty chief, a band of haughty braves followed by their patient squaws. Louder grew the wierd insistent tom-tom note, wild grew the dance, and fierce, until at length exhausted, the braves fell to the ground. After a time they rose, silently one by one, and stole back into the forest.

The second episode opened with a scene in the great cabin of the Mayflower. Grouped about the long table, their solemn countenances pale in the dim light of flickering candles, and the ship's lantern, were the venerable elder Brewster, Governor Carver, John Alden, and all the rest, even the martial figure of Miles Standish, his bright uniform a vivid contrast to the sombre hued garments of the others. Earnest were their discussions of the compact that was to be the law unto them when they set foot upon this shore towards which they had sailed so many weary days, their course set westward, ever westward.

But men and cabin disappeared. The hall of the meeting house in Boston and another solemn assembly took their place. Again with serious mien did the men discuss problems of much mighty weight and moment. With a convincing earnestness did they dispose of all the business of the day, from the question of geese rampant on the Commons to the "Quaker Menace".

The forest next! An expectant hush in the great auditorium and then the mellow notes of a melodeon sounding from the gallery upon the ear. Children's voices hundreds of them, took up the melody, "Lord God, we worship Thee," and as their chorus swelled into beautiful harmony the Pilgrims entered on their way to church. This tableau representing Boughton's well known picture with its accompanying chorale was exquisite. Few of those who saw it will soon forget the sweetly serious angel-face of the little girl, who a bit forgetful, perhaps, of the solemn Sabbath procession, is looking back over her shoulder, gazing open-eyed upon the beautiful snow-wreathed world about her.

The picture faded.

The song died away.

It was "Merry England" next—a banquet hall, a banquet board, a genial host and merry guests all arrayed in the gorgeous finery of the day. Handsome are the cavaliers, and ravishing the maidens. Red is the wine that in the goblets flows and cheerily do the glasses clink together after each merry toast. Governor Culpepper and his Lady are the hosts without peer, and their guests can step the stately measure of the imperial minuet with a courtly grace that is a delight to see.

When the lights flashed upon the third episode the eye was greeted by a sight that will long remain a lovely memory. Towering high, The Goddess of Liberty, a beautiful dignified figure, held royal sway. Near her at either side stood the magnificent figure of the school in academic robe, and the Church, the Hosea figure of the Sargent Frieze. These central figures were presently joined by the Pioneer, the Farmer, the Miner, the Lumberman, the Soldiers of '76, '61 and '14, the nurses and children of all lands. The grouping of the figures and the balancing and arrangement of colors was wonderful—especially when the lovely procession of Fruit and Grain Maidens came forward to blend their exquisite colors into the gorgeous ensemble.

GALA DAY

Saturday, November 20, marked the close of the football season for the Michigan State Normal College. The College celebrated the occasion by making the day a gala day; a day filled by a series of events that was a fitting conclusion to a program that the Men's Union had been staging during the past two months as an accompaniment to the football season. From a simple endeavor to arouse enthusiasm enough in the student body to insure support for the team from the bleachers to achievements like the trip to Albion and gala day is a far step and speaks encouragingly for what can be accomplished when there is the will to do.

As scheduled the program began with a mass-meeting on Normal Field at the last practice Friday afternoon. The bad weather limited the attendance but the band and the yell-master and the few who braved the elements to show their loyalty left nothing to be desired in the way of enthusiasm.

Saturday saw the city blossoming forth in a galaxy of colors. Student houses vied with each other in decorating and the Board of Commerce saw to it that the Green and White was everywhere in evidence downtown. The parade was a huge success. Thirty six organization floats with guards of honor composed of a very large majority of the students followed a band of thirty pieces along a line of march that included all of the business section of the city.

Normal Field surely never saw a like crowd before and it overflowed the bleachers and left only the grid-iron empty.

At the bon fire, Prof. Bowen, Dr. Ford and Mr. C. V. Brown, vice-president of the Board of Commerce were speakers.

The closing feature was a big three gymnasium two orchestra dancing party for students and alumni and which was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

THE DEMOBILIZATION OF THE COLLEGE SERVICE FLAG

Pease Auditorium has been the scene of many an impressive ceremony but nothing that will ever go out from its rostrum will be remembered longer than the ritual with which the Normal College demobilized its service flag at the general assembly Wednesday, February 23. Fortunate indeed do they feel who saw the ceremony and no one who sat in the audience or who participated in the slightest degree can fail to cherish it as one of his finest memories.

The program began at ten o'clock with a military march to whose cadence there filed upon the stage the service men of the college in uniform, the service women, Miss Harriet MacKenzie, Miss Elizabeth Carey, Miss Elinor Strafer and Miss Agnes Dodge, in the uniform of their organization, Chaplain Levering, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Dr. Hoyt, Dean Priddy, President McKenny and Mr. Leary of the Conservatory.

Dr. Hoyt opened the program with an address on the "Spirit of '76 and the Spirit of '17," in which he outlined the philosophical background of the development of American national spirit. Mr. Leary then sang "Lad in Khaki". Dean Priddy followed with an address to the "Silver Stars," in which she paid glowing tribute to the men who came back. Mr. Leary's second solo, "They Are Not Dead," struck admirably the keynote of the solemn ritual that followed. The tribute to the sons of the college who gave their lives in the war opened with an address by President McKenny to the "Gold Stars," a powerful eulogy on the dead who will live forever in the hearts of the American people. Three buglers in army, naval and marine uniforms, respectively, in command of a sergeant of the Signal Corps, blew "attention" and three color guards, similarly uniformed, marched back to the service flag and lowered and folded it, while a solo cornetist in the balcony played "The Star Spangled Banner." The flag, so folded that only the gold stars were visible, was carried to the front of the stage and laid on a flag-draped dias. Then, with the buglers and color guard standing at attention, representatives from 36 college organizations filed past the dias and laid tributes of palms and laurels upon the service flag while, in the balcony, the Normal choir, directed by Prof. Alexander, sang Ivanof's "Bless the Lord, O My Soul." Chaplain Levering then stepped to the dias and read the names of the 11 men of the Normal College who died in the war, recited a prayer and pronounced the benediction. The ritual closed with "taps" by the sergeant.

THE FACULTY CHRISTMAS PARTY

(From the Normal College News.)

This is for you who were not there, you who did not join in the fun and the frolic of the Xmas party given on the Thursday evening before the close of the last term. Those of us who were there need no reminder of the happy time we all had. What fun it was to assemble in the auditorium before the beginning of the evening festivities, where one caught tantalizing glimpses here and there of gay costumes and saucy masks! Then came the bugle call, hushing our merriment awhile and we all went out of doors to listen to the Christmas carols which floated down in lovely harmony from the upper windows of the auditorium and later rang out under the shining Christmas tree on the campus. After that the snow maidens danced before the auditorium, a sight as lovely as one could wish for anywhere.

What followed after is for most of us a riotous blending of bright lights, vivid colors, merry shrieks, gay laughter and happy confusion. It began as soon as we came into the gymnasium which was so very festively decorated with the Christmas colors and emblems. There was a huge fireplace which could have accommodated all the Normal stockings and furnished a comfortable exit for any sizable Santa. There was also a stage in one corner of the room whose quaint setting made us wonder what was to happen thereon.

After a little while THEY appeared. They our faculty! They were a scream and we did the screaming as they marched around, a long procession of strange folk, beautifully or grotesquely disguised. That handsome sheik in the flowing robe was our President? Indeed. That portly policeman, the head of the Department of Mathematics? Yes. That fetching Mother Goose our Miss Walton? Impossible, but true! You don't mean to tell me that all those farmer folk and cabbages and flowers and butterflies and things are from the Natural Science Department? So they are. The bear? Mr. McCulloch, of course. Mary Pickford, don't you know her? That's Miss Matteson.

But we can't begin to name them all.

Nor can we tell you all about the program which included a laughter-provoking reading by a fierce bandit—Prof. Harvey, some pretty dances by the Physical Ed. Girls and a clever Japanese comedy, the Melon Thief staged for us through the courtesy of the Ypsilanti players.

There was pop corn and candy, of course. There always is. And at the end of things a little while for dancing where lad and lass, knight and lady, sheik and princess, tripped it lightly on their own or the other fellow's toes.

THE COLLEGE CIRCUS

The Physical Education Department, long famous for its May-Day-On-The-Green, has added another achievement to its list that bids fair to become a tradition at the college. For elaborate costuming and clever stunts the College Circus, presented at the gymnasium, Thursday and Friday evenings, March 10 and 11, has perhaps never been equalled at the college. From the moment that Bob Speer as ring-master led the participants in a grand promenade around the gymnasium until the final swirl of the last ballet skirt the audience was wild with applause. LaSalle and Ewing, as tight-rope artists, were a scream. Hellenberg and Dodge were as clever and graceful in the bareback riding act as if their steed had been a $1000 Hackney instead of the much abused gym "horse". The Pompeian Flower Dance was a harmony of delicate colors and graceful figures. The Zouave Drill was a marvel of skill and precision. Boxing matches, pantomime ball games, chariot races and sea-serpents filled a program that for two nights delighted audiences that filled bleachers and floor to the limit of capacity, and netted for the Men's Union, to which the Club donated the entire proceeds, nearly $500.00.

To Mr. McCulloch and Miss Wolfe the College Circus is due. To have established a new tradition in the college is perhaps its own reward.

THE MEN'S UNION BANQUET

The First Annual Men's Union Banquet was the biggest get-together of the year. With funds donated by the Physical Ed Club from the proceeds of the College Circus, the Men's Union, students and faculty, were hosts at a banquet in the men's gymnasium, March 17, at which the high school boys here for the Class M Basket Ball Tournament were the guests.

Four hundred seventy-five men ate an elaborate dinner catered by the officers of the Union and served by the Campfire Girls. The eating was interspersed with yells led by Merland Kopka and songs led by Ben Hellenberg. Raye Platt acted as chairman and Bob Speer presided as toastmaster. President McKenny, Dr. Hoyt, Dr. Ford, Prof. Bowen, Secretary Eckley of the Ypsilanti Board of Commerce and Merland Kopka responded to toasts.

LITTLE ALMOND EYES

'Little Almond Eyes,' the Chinese operetta produced Wednesday evening at Pease Auditorium, is history today—a brilliant chapter in the chronicles of a year of unusual achievements in college activities—but those who were privileged to see and hear the production will carry long a vivid memory of its splendid settings, the delicious humor of its lines and its charming melodies.

The producers promised a novelty and that promise was fulfilled beyond all imagining. The entire action took place in the garden of the palace of the Emperor of Cathay—a gorgeous setting of red and black and golden, of which the Emperor's throne, magnificent with its draperies of scarlet and gold, was the crowning feature. Against this background sat a chorus of 50 singers, in two rows on either side of the stage, the back row so elevated that the chorus itself made a second background for the principals—a background of exquisite Chinese costumes, their colors so delicate and so harmoniously arranged that the picture was as pleasing and as unobstrusive as a bit of old mosaic. Distinctly new to Ypsilanti and not by any means traditional to musical performances anywhere was the conception of a stationary chorus. The effect was altogether delightful and all the awkwardness of entry and exit that often spoil the best of choruses was eliminated.

More than one, as he viewed the brilliant setting, must have waited impatiently for the principals, wondering how they could make a showing against so much of splendor. But wonderful though the costumes of the chorus were, the principals upon their entrance were like a cluster of gleaming jewels against a neutral-tinted garment. The prospective brides, Misses Genevieve Neville, Evelyn Weinmann, Dorothy Taylor, Minota Lancaster and Pauline Weiss, were sufficiently lovely and beautifully enough arrayed to charm the heart of any emperor. Miss Dorothy Wood, in the title role, was as dainty and petite as any little maid of old Cathay could ever be. The men were perhaps even more stunningly attired than the women. Ben Hellenberg, as the emperor, wore a wonderful imported costume of scarlet and gold and Mr. Walter Leary's costume of black and yellow was especially striking. Merland Kopka as a lieutenant of the guard was the typical soldier of Cathay in both costume and deportment.

Beautiful as were setting and costumes, yet it would have been a grievous error if the appeal to the eye had been the dominant one. But the Normal College is famous for its music and the Wednesday evening performance in no way fell short of that high standard. The melodies of Will MacFarlane, who wrote the music of the operetta, are always the sort that engrave themselves upon the memory and it will be long before any one in Wednesday's audience will forget the deliciously colorful things that the caste and chorus interpreted so happily. Prof. Alexander, in a magnificent imported Mandarin costume of priceless brocade, conducted the chorus. No one in Ypsilanti can now be stranger to the glorious music that Mr. Alexander seems to draw as if by magic from his famous choirs but to even an Ypsilanti audience the great conductor played a new role and those who have listened enthralled to the ecclesiastic music in which his choirs have won their renown experienced a new pleasure at the airy, lilting harmonies that his baton drew from this latest of his choruses. Mr. Russell Gee's brilliant and sympathetic piano accompaniments were a distinct contribution.

Again, however, the chorus was but a background to the principals. Miss Wood, as "Little Almond Eyes," never sang better and her audience, to many of whom her lovely voice is now well known, were charmed as perhaps she never, with all her successes, had charmed them before. Miss Neville, who has a particularly colorful contralto, was in especially good voice and her listeners were only regretful that her two songs were not better vehicles for her talent. Mr. John Finch, who is also well known in the city as a soloist, had perhaps the best opportunity of any of the soloists in that his songs were peculiarly adapted to his fine tenor voice. Mr. Ben Hellenberg, as the Emperor Ming, handled his spoken lines to perfection and his deep baritone voice was revealed particularly well in his solos. Mr. Walter Leary, as the Master of Ceremonies, displayed splendid abilities, and his work in his songs were a decided contribution to the high place he has made for himself during his brief stay in Ypsilanti, not only among music-lovers of Ypsilanti but throughout this section of the state. Mr. Leary came to Ypsilanti last fall direct from Herbert Wither- spoon's studios and not only has his mellow, flexible baritone and his finished handling of it endeared him to the hearts of those who know him, but his charm and graciousness of manner have so impressed all who have come in contact with him to such an extent that his early return to New York is anticipated with deep regret. To them every opportunity to hear his splendid voice is golden. To Mr. Leary's efforts is due to a very great degree the success of the operetta. His was the conception of the idea and his whole-hearted devotion to the work of production was very largely accountable for the response of the entire caste. He has proved himself not only a soloist of unusual merit but a director of a very high order. Those who have been nearest him in these days of preparation hope and predict for him a brilliant future.

MAY - DAY - ON - THE - GREEN

No May Queen could have asked a fairer day than that which greeted Miss Sarah Jane Dodge at the May-Day-On-The-Green, and no May Day could have wished a fairer queen. The Physical Education Department has made May Day a tradition at the Normal College; a tradition of wonderfully harmonized colorings and graceful dances that has done as much, perhaps, as any other one thing to make the college famous. May Days are not always fair and in the years that have past there have been May Days when belated April showers drenched the green and put an end to dancing and sent dancers and assembly scurrying for shelter. There has been even an occasional May Day when an out-of-season snowstorm has smothered, with its white blanket, the songs of birds, the hum of bees, the flitting of butterflies and the springing of flowers, without which May Day is not May Day at all.

But after a morning of whimsical, tantalizing threats, the afternoon was everything that men call fair in weather. The sun, unhindered by a single cloud, beamed on a green that was as fresh and lovely as spring storms always leave a green. Normal creek, flush with the recent rain, gurgled and chattered alluringly. The trees in all the glory of their first full leaf made the happiest of backgrounds to the deliciously colorful mazes of the dances that filled the program well to overflowing.

May Day has only one theme—the awakening of Spring. Each year, however, Mrs. Burton and her clever corps of assistants clothe that theme in a new garb: each new conception, so they say who have seen many May Days, a bit happier than any that have gone before. And so it was with this program—new costumes, new dances, new music; and, to watch and listen, one of the biggest and most enthusiastic assemblies that ever filled the hills that make the green a natural amphitheater.

The program began with a grand parade led by the May Queen and her retinue. Part One was a prelude to the coming of Spring, opened by a dance of the Snow Maidens, their fleecy white dresses typifying the yielding of the snow to the warmth of sun and shower. Miss Wolfe, as the Herald of Spring, followed with a dance that brought back visions of a Pan piping in the hills and dryads tripping on freshly greening lawn. The Rain came next, a group dance costumed in clinging gray. Wind followed, a breeziest of solo dances and, having past, gave way to the Blue Sky and white drifting clouds that one remembers even when the showers are forgotten. The Rainbow of Promise figured too in the picture—seven girls gowned in all the multitudinous tints of a May rainbow. Last of all to complete the awakening, Miss Gertrude Freed, in the sunniest of costumes, danced the dance of the warm spring sun. Part One concluded with the crowning of the May Queen.

Part Two was a "Folk Frolic" in which groups garbed in the costumes of the countries which they suggested danced the dances by which the world knows them quite as well as by their languages. Typifying the longing of these peoples for the flowers of spring. Part Two concluded with a group of charming flower dances.

Part Three of the program began with the awakening of the flowers at the touch of the May Queen's magic wand. The Crocus, dainty in her vari-colored robes, danced, appropriately first. Then the Robin Red Breasts, in the most original of dress fluttered in to hop and strut in truly Red Breast fashion. Spring Beauties and Violets followed in a dainty figure; and then the bluest of Blue-birds, to assure that Spring had really come. Cowslips, Fleur-de-Lis, Bees and Butterflies and even the brilliant Cardinal Birds each danced in turn and tripped to their places in the final picture—a lovely garden scene in which a group of girls in white wound and rewound the Maypoles while the Queen herself tripped a triumphant measure.

May Day is past once more, leaving behind a charming memory and adding one more achievement to the credit of the Physical Education Department.

PI KAPPA DELTA

Professor McKay, who has done so much for oratory and debating at the college has secured a local chapter of the national honorary forensic society, the Pi-Kappa Delta.

The first banquet and installation was held Friday, June 11. Prof. Breese of M. A. C. conducted the installation and initiation. Membership is limited to those who have made the college debating teams and to the college orators.

The following are charter members:

Prof. Frederic McKay, Eaton Bemis, Arnold Brown, Henry Elfin, Richard Ford, Harold Fox, Rachel Fox, Elden Geyer, Ruth Groh, Catherine Hutton, Arthur Klemmer, Merland Kopka, Paul Misner, Alice Morton, Genevieve Neville, Erna Pasch, Donald Ross, Robert Speer, Ruth Whipple, Burton Wood.

KOLLEGE KOMEDY

At this year's Kollege Komedy twenty-seven organizations presented two programs, Thursday and Friday evenings, May 5 and 6, to audiences that are voted the largest ever assembled at this annual event. The management, Bob Speer and Agnes Dodge, turned over to the Student Christian Association, six hundred dollars and five cents as the proceeds of the production.

Dear Fellow Students:

Once again the official memory book is in your hands. It lacks, undoubtedly, many things that you would class as the best of memories. It contains much, too, perhaps, that you had not thought of remembering. But the task of selecting the 'high spots' from a year brimful of stellar events is by no means simple.

The year past has been most remarkable for its pep and spirit and achievement. The duty of compiling its history is an honor and the best presentation of it must fall short. No one is more cognizant of that honor than the Aurora Board and no one more grateful to those who, by effort and suggestion, have helped to fill these pages.

Sincerely,

THE AURORA BOARD.

"The Men's Union takes the cup. For initiative, pep, push and accomplishments it has been the outstanding organization on the campus during the year. Never in the history of the college has this organization played so important a part. This has been due to outstanding leadership and striking loyalty. If any one has ever questioned the possibility of a Men's Union, that person's question has been answered in the year 1920-21. Every one now knows that the Men's Union should be and can be a tremendous factor in the activities of the campus. Next year the college will miss Bob and Raye and Merland and others of the class of 1921. May the mantles of this bunch of intelligent and loyal boosters fall on the shoulders of worthy successors."

President Charles McKenny.

Men's Union Has Eventful Year

Probably No Other Organization Has Contributed More to the Year's Activity

The Men's Union has been, unquestionably, the most active organization on the campus this year. Directly or indirectly, it has played an important part in practically every event of the college year, and the events that stand out in the minds of the year's student body and that will be remembered longest are those that were sponsored directly by the Union. During the very first week of the fall term a meeting was held at which the candidates for offices were nominated and at which a general plan of action was formulated. Bob Speer was elected president by a unanimous vote at this meeting and the unexpected success of the plans there presented bear witness to the fact that the faith of the men of the campus was not misplaced when they chose him to lead them.

MASS MEETINGS

In general the purpose of this year's Union has been to restore and revivify and keep alive that factor without which no college can be a success—college spirit. To this purpose the Men's Union has been directly or indirectly connected with practically every important event of the college year. Under Bob Speer's skillful management the Union staged pep-meetings before each football game that filled the bleachers to overflowing next day. The 'Go-to-Albion' Campaign and Gala Day were Men's Union achievements. The Union handled the advertising for the College Circus and with the funds derived therefrom staged the Men's Union Banquet to the Class B teams in the Basket Ball Tournament. The demobilization of the college service flag was entirely in the hands of the officers of the Union and the executive committee is now busy collecting funds to construct a Memorial Park in honor of the sons of the college who fell in the World War.

The money received from the Kollege Komedý, has been wisely spent, in part, in equipping the rooms in the basement of the administration building. The plan is that these rooms shall become the study and recreational centers for M. S. N. C. men. Two officers are to be sent to the annual Y. M. C. A. conference at Lake Geneva, June 17-27. With the start of the greatly needed equipment in our rooms the "Y" promises next year to take a leading part in the campus activities, as well as to do a world of service.

COMMERCIAL TEACHERS' CLUB

The Commercial Teachers' Club is a group of students of Cleary College and the Michigan State Normal College. The club has a constitution, elects officers quarterly, and holds semi-monthly meetings, which are partly social and partly business.

The members discuss subjects which bear directly and indirectly upon their future work and in general strive to promote social activities and to produce a deeper and better college spirit.

Physical Ed. Club

There is no need to announce the Physical Ed. Club. That it is one of the liveliest organizations on the campus is apparent and further assurance of its success are the officers just elected.

This past year has been a busy and happy one for the Club. Soon after school opened last fall there was a "get-together" hike up River Brink and the usual "regular style" breakfast in the open. There has always been so much enthusiasm shown for nature study by the "Physical Eds" that more hikes were arranged. Classes were declared off one morning and a trip to the old township-house mapped out and breakfast eaten down by the river. The tramp was led by Perry Deakin and after a most satisfying breakfast around the fire, a rare baseball game was started with President McKenny filling all the best positions. Election of officers was held and a cross-country route taken back to the city. The last hike was from Ann Arbor after eating supper there at the Busy Bee. The season is by no means over and there are more hikes and fun planned. Regular meetings twice a month have been held, good speakers secured and many things of interest discussed. Parties were planned and the biggest event of the year, the circus, concocted and run off in good order. The circus was a huge success thanks to "Doc" McCulloch, Miss Wolfe, all those who took part, Bob Speer, our many artists, and the whole school and the city of Ypsilanti.

Plans for the coming year are in the hands of a capable committee.

Venus Walker

Jeannette Kriekard

Irene Pfannenschmidt

Mildred Saltgiver

Gladys Bradfield

This committee has already had one meeting and many good suggestions have been offered. All who care to hike and make a regular practice of it will be organized into a hiking group which others will have the privilege of joining any time. This group will appoint guides and take hikes every week to places of interest about surrounding country. Another committee will be chosen to take charge of the social and moral welfare of the Physical Ed. Club. Details will be announced later. Plans for the circus are already under way and preparations will begin early in the fall for a bigger and better circus than ever.

Taking it all around the Physical Ed. Club is a good means for bringing members of the department together and by so doing is a big help in promoting the proper school spirit among the students.

THE ORATORICAL ASSOCIATION

The activities of the Oratorical Association are directed by the Oratorical Board. The officers for this year are: Merland A. Kopka, president; Delta Plowfield, vice-president; Rose Fearron, secretary; Eaton O. Bemis, treasurer; Arnold W. Brown, state delegate; Robert K. S. Speer, reporter. The following organization representatives are also members of the board: Ola B. Hiller, Willard Club; Muriel E. Brusie, Wodeso Club; Leo F. Callahan, Lincoln Club; Richard Ford, Webster Club; Rachael Fox and Richard Hungerford, Freshman Class; Rose Fearron and Hubert Smith, Sophomore Class; Flavian Watkins and George E. Shawley, Junior Class; Byron T. Oakes and Joseph H. Stevens, Senior Class; Professor McKay, Faculty Representative.

The activities of last year culminated with the public awarding of college honors to those who had participated in the intercollege speaking events for 1919-1920. On June 16th, 1920, at the final general assembly, the honor students were seated upon the platform with the participants in athletics for the year and, at the close of a most interesting program with Professor Bowen as chairman, the college gold medals were awarded to J. Norman Pohl, Arnold W. Brown, Ralph Gallagher, Robert K. S. Speer, Floyd W. Smith and Merland A. Kopka in debate, and Pearl C. Bigge and Charles E. Forsythe in oratory. Mention was made of the fact that the Switzer Cup was won permanently by the Webster Club, the eighth annual interpretative reading contest by Irene Van Horn, and the fifth annual freshman public speaking contest by J. Norman Pohl. The platform campus activities were thus brought to a fitting close.

Six debates were staged this year, the members of the teams being drawn from the two women's and the two men's debating clubs. The women held the first intercollege debate, a double contest, with the Bowling Green State Normal College. The question was: "Resolved, that the adjustment of differences in the industries supplying the country with food, fuel, clothing and transportation should be made a function of industrial courts set up by the federal government." The affirmative team composed of Misses Groh, Fox and Whipple and the negative team composed of Misses Morton, Neville and Larson both defeated their Ohio friends by two to one decisions. For the first time in Normal history, a freshman debate was put on, with Kalamazoo College. The question for debate was: "Resolved, that Congress should enact legislation providing for the compulsory arbitration of all labor disputes in the United States, constitutionality waived." Messrs. Misner and Klemmer and Miss Pasch defended the affirmative side and Misses Morton and Larson and Mr. Elfvin the negative. The affirmative won by a two to one decision while the negative lost by a three to nothing decision. The final debate was held with the Detroit Junior College, the affirmative team consisting of Messrs. Geyer, Wood and Ford and the negative team of Messrs. Kopka, Bemis and Speer. Detroit Junior College won the honors, being awarded a three to nothing decision in Detroit and a two to one decision in Ypsilanti. After all, winning half and losing half is the way debates ought to go anyway.

Undoubtedly the greatest platform interest centered in oratory this year. The new plan of requiring the students in the tryouts to talk upon a topic on two days' notice seems to be justified by its results. Catherine Hutton with her oration, "The Church and the New America" was awarded the honors in the local contest and in the state contest held at Albion College on March 4th, by her brilliance of thought, composition and delivery received first place from five of the six judges and was awarded the state gold medal in oratory. Donald M. Ross with his oration, "Anglo-Saxon Unity and World Peace" was successful only in a slightly less degree, for in the same contest, his fine background of thought, his oratorical presence and his clear-cut delivery won for him second place in a keenly contested arena. Our orators did superb work, and both were freshmen.

Indications point to strong freshman public speaking contest to be held in June. Owing to the absence of Assistant Professor Hintz, who is in Columbia University this year, the annual interpretative reading contest was not put on.

Another unique activity growing out of the intercollege contests will undoubtedly be realized before the close of the spring term. This is the organization of a chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, a national honorary platform fraternity. Twenty students now in college are eligible and plans are rapidly going forward looking toward the installation of the members early in June. Such recognition will add much to sustain the interest in platform activities during the coming year.

The variety and success of the Oratorical Association program indicate clearly that it occupies a large and assured place in the life of the campus.

The Church And The New America

BY CATHARINE HUTTON

MICHIGAN STATE NORMAL COLLEGE
FOR

MICHIGAN ORATORICAL LEAGUE CONTEST

Albion College, Albion, Michigan, March 4, 1921.

Awarded the gold medal for first place in the Women's Contest.

Apparently, human vision and calculation often see amiss. In the enthusiasm, born of playing our part in the mighty game of war, we conceived that the old order had passed and that a new order was already achieved. Rare enthusiasm it was! During that year and a half it manifested itself in a quality of sacrifice and unselfishness seldom displayed in our whole history. America . . . yielded to the driving force of a great ideal. Youths quit the college, men gave up their jobs, women left quiet homes for the shops; everywhere the thread of normal life was broken, petty pursuits forgotten, hardships and even death courageously faced—all that cherished ideals might not perish. But two years and a half have elapsed since peace dawned. How far we have fallen short! The period has been one of disillusionment; hopes of a rebuilt world, discredited. The lull after the tempest but reveals the results of its ravages. Turmoil and upheaval disfigure the face of the war-ridden world; upheaval . . . in the destruction of law and morals. A general sag in the whole social order is evident. . . . Faith is discontented; materialism, more brazen. . . . Then, the light of higher purposes gleamed clear and promising; now, the keen edge of honor is dulled. . . .

Face if we will the conditions. Observe . . . and then judge. The despicable figure of the profiteer confronts us. . . . Those, who accept eight dollar a day and give four dollars' worth of work, are quite as detestable as are the recipients of two hundred percent dividends. . . . Again, with what menacing aspect stand the forces of capital and labor, swords drawn . . . labor forcing the issue during rising prices and capital now aggressive on the decline! They deprive us of life's necessities. Their deadly bullets, aimed at each other, strike as well the disinterested public. Crime is rampant. . . . Yet, widespread as is this regime of lawlessness, is it not but the cancerous outgrowth of that grasping spirit of taking without giving, which is sweeping our country and trampling law and morals beneath its feet. In threatening the stability of the home, it imperils the only foundation upon which decent civilization can rest and nations grow into greatness. Even that permanent . . . peace for which we fought . . . has been discountenanced . . .

. . . These are but the outstanding features of the era. . . . This is the situation in a day when the greater world beyond our border cries out . . . for moral guidance as never before. The occasion for great things is here. Shall we meet it? In answer to that appeal we look about for fundamental institutions upon which we may depend. Some cry for more laws . . . True, law is the great curbing social force, but it is . . . the child of public opinion. When public opinion vacates . . . it becomes but the inane image of what it was. The law is efficient only when it has the masses behind it. At best it is but the conserving force of society, enabling it, by eternal vigilance, to hold what it has already won.

Education then must be our hope. And surely great things may be expected . . . we hold up, as the solution of our national problems, the power of the common man to think. . . . wherever communities grow and nations thrive, thinking is necessary; thinking in industry, in education, in religion, and in social hygiene. In monarchical countries, kings and their advisors do the thinking. . . . In America, in a democracy . . . we must do the thinking for ourselves. "But educate the citizens . . . we say, "and he will remedy our evils." . . . We do not do right rather than wrong because we know it to be right; we do not sacrifice and suffer because we merely know we ought; we do not drop a nickel into the blind-man's cup because we deem it a wise thing. There must be a force, impelling us toward right purposes. Like the great motor, inert until oil and spark are applied, we too are passive until a moral igniting force gives life to our convictions and moves our will.

Fellow Americans, I present for your earnest consideration religion as the real solution,—plain, old fashioned, practical, impelling, sacrificial religion; religion that looks upward in love to "the Lord thy God," and outward in love to "thy neighbor as thyself." Where shall we look for that sort of religion, where but to . . . the Christian church . . . the only hope of the world today.

. . . Speaking in terms of majorities, America is no longer Christian; . . . no longer . . . religious . . . From the religious census of the country for the past decade, we learn that sixty millions of our people are not interested enough in religion to declare their relation to any religious body. Then is the church losing its hold? The man who answers in terms of a single generation may be in doubt. But let us take the long-range view. . . . If human progress be represented by the twelve figures of a great clock, then every revolution of its minute hand measures off nearly fifty thousand years. Start the clock. One circle of the hand, fifty thousand years; twice, one hundred thousand times, ten times, eleven times, and on the last round, when within three minutes of twelve, only two thousand years ago, occurs the advent of Christianity, the new force which then begins its leavening work upon human hearts. Is it losing its hold? Has it failed? My friends, it has only fairly entered upon its mission. The world has but begun to see its deeper meanings and its mightier possibilities. We have not yet learned how to throw the light of the church upon the commonplace . . . Men still look upon it . . . as a Sunday occupation. Our churches should radiate peace, good will, and right living into the daily lives of their people. We must be more insistent upon religion as a guiding principle from Monday morning to Saturday night . . . Life must be a garden, full of human interests, in whose center stands the temple, spreading its benediction over all. . . . Thus must the church . . . take its place as a moving force in the lives of men.

. . . The profiteer, big and little, must learn again the commandment, "Thou shalt not steal." The preacher calms more disputes and settles more strikes than all the boards of arbitration in forty-eight states. Does he not face capital with its millions and labor with its grievances on Sunday morning? And before him, do they not face each other on the only possible common ground upon which they can stand? Every sermon impresses the golden rule of square dealing. It is the force of that plea and that alone that shall outlaw the strike and bring industrial justice. . . . Crime and disorder too, like the sewer rats, will evacuate when the channels of Christian influence are open in the street, the store, and the market-place. . . . and peace domestic will enlarge into peace and democracy for all mankind.

My friend, I have no new plan to offer; there is none. We must enter the age-old fight . . . Let us take our inspiration from that warrior of old who declared that our struggle is no longer "against flesh and blood, but against the rulers of moral darkness, and the henchmen of wickedness in high places." The burden of the task falls . . . upon the rank and file. The battle will be won only when every last American citizen does his duty.

"It ain't the guns nor armaments
Nor the funds that they can pay
But the close cooperation
That makes them win the day.
It ain't the individual
Nor the army as a whole;
But the everlastin' teamwork
Of every bloomin' soul."

Such is the loyalty the Church demands: such the spirit that will bring the New America.

Anglo-Saxon Unity and World Peace

By DONALD ROSS

FOR

Michigan Oratorical League Contest

Albion College, Albion, Michigan, March 4, 1921.

Winner of Second Place in the Men's Contest.

July 28, 1920 was a memorable day in the history of English and American relations. In Canning enclosure around the base of a veiled statue assembled a motley throng,—men from the swarming work-a-day world of London, men from overseas, tourists and educators, statesmen and princes. From the distinguished company on the platform rises a man,—Viscount Bryce. Eloquently he speaks and gives way to the American statesman, Elihu Root. Then in fitting phrase England's premier, Lloyd George, delivers the address of acceptance. The tense moment that follows reveals to the world St. Gauden's stern, solemn, thoughtful, figure of America's emancipator president, Abraham Lincoln. The overlapping shadows of the majestic Houses of Parliament and the venerable Westminster Abbey fall upon it while about its base the living tides of London roar. As they look with reverence upon that benign face, the future generations of old England will feel the kindling of new visions, new hopes, new ideals. There he stands with the sculptured figures of her illustrious, a warning to those who would seek disruption. Lincoln is England's as he is America's, and his statue in Canning enclosure is an expression of the amity that must abide between the two branches of the Anglo-Saxon race.

That impressive figure in London is - - - a recognition of the fact that peace and friendship have existed between the two nations for over one hundred years. Englishmen have long since caught the deeper purpose of those who - - - "fired the shot heard round the world." Up thru the prosperous years - - - our national policy toward Great Britain has been essentially one of profound regard. When the destiny of the Union was imperiled, Lincoln outlined our relations in an exchange of sentiment with Northern sympathizers at Lancashire, England;—"whatever misfortune may befall your country or my own, the peace and friendship which now exists between us will be, as it shall be my desire to make them, perpetual." The frequent bumptiousness of American tourists, cultural and economic jealousies, biased Irish propaganda, have strained the tie of our friendly relations. . . . These sentiments undoubtedly are to be associated with the motive of scheming diplomatic intriguants. America and England are not so widely separated in interests that one should be dissatisfied with the other to the point of complexity of international relationships, stimulated thru the avenue of individual repudiation. We are made one by a consciousness of similar understandings. They will lead us past the danger ground to the solid plateau of eternal amicability.

Just three hundred years ago the Pilgrim Fathers . . . moored in Plymouth Bay, . . . Battling the forces of nature . . . they fought their way . . . Thru the precipitous Cumberland gap, down the rapid head waters of the Ohio to the placid Mississippi, over the western plains, across a mountain barrier to a new ocean, the hardy pioneer followed the perilous trail. Hordes of immigrants came and mingled with them. The new arrivals introduced new thoughts, . . . But still, wrought into the very framework of our national pyramid are English customs, English language, English blood.

The evolution of justice gave the Englishman a basic set of laws. . . . They were rooted deep in the past of every Briton. American colonists brought with them those common laws. . . . When our government was formed, they still remained the foundation of all our judicial proceeding. And so today the same common statutes that convict the lawbreakers of the United States sentence the lawless of Great Britain. Educated thus in a common school, the . . . citizenry of England and the exploring Americans dreamed dreams . . . They dreamed not of passive equality but of unprecedented liberty, peace and prosperity. Together they planned, together they made their governmental systems; and now, together they are leading the forces of democracy in trampling out the last vestige of a slowly disappearing, tyrannic, monarchial few.

There is snow on the war-plowed fields of northern France tonight,—snow upon those great cemeteries where lie sleeping the glorious battalions of our living dead. . . . Shall we who have given them our promise forget now the cause for which they gave their lives? Or shall we, mindful of that promise, dedicate ourselves anew at the altar of peace on which they made their sacrifice? There comes again to us, . . . the appeal of the dying soldier . . .

To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep though poppies grow
In Flander's fields.

The flower of our manhood left their homes and loved ones to sacrifice their lives . . . they fought the good fight, to hold higher the beacon light of freedom. . . . once more right was declared supreme over might. Tho the turmoil and devastation of war are over, there still remains its indelible scar left on thousands of sorrowful mothers, wives and sweethearts. Shall we lower the torch . . . Are we to forget the lesson taught us by the scourge of war?

The same lesson that we have been taught has been retaught in the classroom of every battle. . . . War saved freedom for the Romans and halted the madness of a destructible Hun; gave the force of England a victory over a tyrant at Waterloo; established justice among the Balkan states; liberated the American colonists from the oppression of a British king; freed Cuba and Hayti from Spanish injustice. Every great conflict that has . . . made right triumphant has brought the world a step nearer the goal . . . The evolution of national conquests has ever led upward toward the time when all self-respecting nations shall proclaim themselves "to proud to fight." Let us believe that the breaking day of a new era, once "the far-off divine event toward which the whole creation moved", "now stands jocund on the misty mountain top", and bids fair soon to shed its light over all the earth.

We are now arrived at the juncture in the conduct of international affairs when it would seem that the principle of moral suasion should be master. . . . But even now, the sword can not be cast aside and the destiny of the world supported on an ethical foundation. It requires force to sooth the irate squalls of the transition period. . . . that power which must safely guide amid revolution must also safely substitute for its militant principle that of moral persuasion. Henry Ward Beecher spoke the words, as true now as in his day, "America and England for religion and liberty are a match for the world." . . . Built on the foundation of our identical faiths and cemented by our like laws, customs, governments, languages, understandings, we may form a friendship . . . which will be an ideal for all men.

It remains for a concord of nations to lift the world out of the black night of war into the auspicious day of peace. . . . More glorious than any page of history yet written will be the page that shall record the reconciliation of nations. . . . This is the task which God in his providence has reserved for the English and American peoples.

Men and women of America, as the price of this hour, millions upon millions of lives have been sacrificed on the war god's altar. These men shall not have died in vain if England and America catch the spirit in which they gave their lives; if England and America surmount the obstacle of petty animosity; if England and America unite for peace under the bond of intimate relationships. I see a broad highway bordered on either side by lurking dangers. Up the long slope the nations slowly move, England and America leading safely past the narrow ways to the summit where the bright sun of peace shines eternally. My dream shall be made true only thru Anglo-Saxon unity and cooperation. Then, and only then, may we repeat to those who now lie still, tiers deep, 'neath the cover of mother earth:—

Fear not that ye have died for naught.
The torch ye threw to us we caught,
Ten million hands will hold it high;
And freedom's light shall never die.
We've learned the lesson that ye taught
In Flander's fields.

LAONIAN DRAMA SOCIETY

The Laonian Drama Society was organized in 1913 under the patronage of Professor Abigail Pearce. The purpose of the society is to promote interest in, and study of modern dramatic literature. During the year three one-act plays were given: "The Burglars," by the new initiates; "Thirteen," by three of the members; and "The Dear Departed," given in the spring by members of the society.

PORTIA LITERARY SOCIETY

The Portia Literary Society was organized in 1901 as a girls' debating and oratorical society, and soon gained for itself a place among the various activities of college life. Portia of Belmont, as the name implies, was looked to as the ideal of the girls, who strive to attain that fluency of expression which was exemplified by her. Time, however, has altered, to some degree, the original aim of the society, which has become purely literary.

The meetings of the past year have been especially interesting and instructive. The subject of the programs has been Russian Literature; the acquaintance made with Tolstoi, Gorky, Turgenev, Pou kin, Andreyev, and Tchekoff, through their lives and short stories, has proved very delightful. A great interest in the work has been shown by the large attendance of the members at the meetings, and under the capable supervision of their patronesses, Miss Rankin and Miss Carey, much has been accomplished.

FRANCES E. WILLARD DEBATING CLUB

In January, 1919, under the direction of Professor J. Stuart Lathers, the Frances E. Willard Debating Club was organized. This is the second debating club to be organized for the women of the Michigan State Normal College, the other being the Wodeso organized in 1915. In February, 1919, Professor F. B. McKay took charge of the club and is now its faculty critic.

The purpose of the club is to study and debate some of the live important questions of the day of national, local, and state interest. The club has grown rapidly and has several times debated the Wodeso Club. At the last meeting of the year 1920, a picture was presented to the Normal College by the Club. In February, 1921, a team consisting of three members of the club went to Bowling Green and defeated Ohio Normal in a debate.

WODESO

The Wodeso was organized in 1913 for the purpose of promoting the art of debating and public speaking among the Women of the college. The first syllables of the three words, Women's Debating Society, were chosen to make up the name by which the club should be known. Debates are held at the weekly meetings and current questions of national and local interest are discussed.

THE BA-EA-KE CLUB

The Ba-Ea-Ke Club consists of the students from Barry, Eaton and Kent Counties. Its purpose is to develop those natural feelings of kinship that unite people from the same section of the country. Many social get-togethers were enjoyed during the year.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS' CLUB

About eight years ago an organization was established composed of the Catholic students of the Normal College and Cleary College. This was known as the Catholic Students' Club. It now has a membership of about eighty-five. There are alternate social and business meetings. At the social meetings informal talks and addresses are given by members of the faculty and other worth-while men and women.

The club is governed by a simple constitution and is maintained by moderate dues. Its purpose was to bring the students together socially to be able to appreciate the best, and to have a realization of possibilities and responsibilities.

The faculty members are its patrons and patronesses, and it has been through their kindness and their ever-ready and ever-helpful advice that the club has flourished and become the organization that it has.

The advisors are:

Miss Elizabeth McCrickett
Miss Ethel McCrickett
Miss Elinor Strafer

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Steimle
Miss Florence Kelly
Miss Mary McDermott

Mrs. A. G. Erickson

NORMAL SERVICE LEAGUE

The Normal Service League was organized in November, 1920, by a group of self-supporting students.

The purpose of this organization is to develop a spirit of co-operation among the members and to provide an opportunity for social advantages of which the present schedule often deprives them.

Plans for the future include the establishment of an Employment Bureau and a Loan Fund. May this serve to encourage all those who bring to Michigan State Normal College the best that they have with the assurance that the best will come back to them.

HUMOR

Oh, well, when my shoes wear out I'll be on my feet again.

Henry Ford: "It's the little things that count."

Blue Beard: "Heads, you lose."

Attila: "Treat 'em rough."

Siamese Twins: "Oh, that this two solid flesh would melt."

Atlas: "Grin and bear it."

Dante: "Hell is paved with good intentions."

Methuselah: "A man is just as old as he feels."

Teacher: Now we will represent the moon by my hat.

Student: Is the moon inhabited?

The reason that most wives are not interested in reading the letters they find in their husbands pockets is that they are the ones they gave the husband to mail several days before.
—Sioux City Journal.

"I may not be so big a fool as I look," said he to her. They were having a quarrel.

"No?" she replied sweetly. "Then you have a great deal to be thankful for."

"I don't believe in parading my virtues," said the righteous husband to his wife.

"That is wise, my dear," said the wife. "It always takes a number, you know, for a parade."

WOULDN'T IT BE FUNNY TO SEE?

A landlady boarding a train.

A crooked man straighten up.

A deaf man get a hearing in court.

A vaudeville team hitched to a star.

An attorney pressing his client's suit.

A rector giving a society belle a ring.

A wife practice on the piano before giving her husband a lecture.

A chinese laundryman clean up a fortune.

A train of thought wrecked in a brain storm.

FOOTING THE BILL.

"Bill's going to sue the company for damages."

"Why, what did they do to him?"

"They blew the quittin' whistle when 'e was carrying a 'eavy piece of iron, and 'e dropped it on 'is foot."

—New York Central Magazine.

IT WAS A "PUSHER".

"Yes, mum," sniveled the Panhandler, "there was a time when I rode in my own carriage."

"My, what a come down?" sympathized the kind-hearted woman. "And how long has it been since you rode in your own carriage?"

"Just forty-five years, mum," replied the Panhandler, as he pocketed the proffered dime, "I was a baby then."

—The Catholic News.

After coming in from a twenty-mile "hike" the officers in command of a negro company said, before dismissing them:

"I want all of the men who are too tired to take another hike, to take two paces forward."

All stepped forward except one big, husky six-footer. Noticing him, the officer said, "Well, Johnson, ready for twenty miles more?"

"No, sah," replied Johnson, "Ah'm too tired to eben take dem two steps!"

Passer-By: Say, boy, your dog bit me on the ankle!"

Boy: Well, dat's as high as he could reach. You wouldn't expect a little pup like him to bite your neck, would you?"

TIT FOR TAT.

The old man's wife was getting into a carriage, and he neglected to assist her.

"You are not so gallant, John, as when you were a boy," she exclaimed in gentle rebuke.

"No," was his ready response: "and you are not so buoyant as when you were a gal."

—Sacred Heart Review.

Lady Shopper: These don't look like fast colors to me.

Clerk: They are, madam. You should see them when they run.

She: Have you ever played at the game of love?

He: Just once, but I needed a shave and was disqualified for unnecessary roughness.
—Record.

"Drink to me only with thine eyes," sang the sweet young thing.

"I'm sorry," answered Clarence, "but I left my glasses at home."

—Toronto Goblin.

GROSS IGNORANCE.

A Pittsburgh lawyer was conducting a case in court not long ago, and one of the witnesses, a burly negro, confessed that at the time of his arrest he was engaged in a crap game. Immediately the lawyer said: "Now sir, I want you to tell the jury just how you deal craps."

"Wass dat?" asked the witness, rolling his eyes.

"Address the jury, sir," thundered the lawyer, "and tell them just how you deal craps."

"Lemme outen heah!" cried the witness uneasily. "Fust thing I know this gemman gwine to ask me how to drink a sandwich."

"Farmer" Brown: I've got a new pig and I named him Ink.

Neighbor: What's the idea? Is he black?

"Farmer" Brown: No, but he's always getting out of the pen and running all over.

ONE EXPLANATION.

"Rastus, what's an alibi?"

"Dats provin dat you waz at prayer meeting' whar you wasn't in order to show dat you wasn't at the crap game whar you wnz."

THE BETTER PLAN.

"If you run across any friends of mine on your auto trip, give them my regards."

"Don't you think it would be better to take them to a hospital'." —Ex.

OR THREE.

"Have you a price-list?"

"Not a recent one, madam; but I can give you an old one, and all you have to do is to multiply everything by two."

"Why do you always have dates with Phil on Friday night?"

"That's the day for fish, isn't it?"

First Freshman: What made the girl at the information desk get sore at me?

Second Freshman: You started off by calling her "Miss Information."

—The Georgia Cracker.

SANITATION.

"How clear the horizon is."

"Yes, I swept it with my eye."

Mr. Jones had been out in a rain storm and he stood before the fire drying himself. He was very bowlegged. A little neighbor girl came in and stood watching him for a few minutes then ran into the kitchen crying "Oh! Mrs. Jones come quick! Your husband is warping."

Chile: I hear Colgate and Williams had a swimming meet.

Bean: Yes, there was so much foam in the water they had to call the meet off.

—Brown Jug.

Short: What's the matter with the Dean's eyes?

Stubble: They're all right so far as I know.

Short: Well, when I asked for my leave of absence yesterday, he asked me twice where my hat was, and it was on my head all the time.

—The Blair Breeze.

INTERRUPTED

"Here is a letter it would hardly do for us to publish," said the patent-medicine quack. "A man writes: 'I have just taken the first bottle of your medicine' "

"Well?" said his partner.

"There it breaks off short, and is signed in another handwriting, 'per executor.' "

—The Western Christian Advocate.

Chambers: We couldn't put the pledge pin on young Willcox. Thought we had him all landed when he backed out of it.

Davies: What's his reason?

Chambers: Said all the time he was eating his dinner up at the house yesterday he kept hearing the colored cook's youngster yelling out in the kitchen. It made a poor impression upon him.

Davies: I see—kept out by the black bawl!

PUTTING IT FAIRLY.

Little Willie: Pass me the butter.

Mother (Reproachfully): If what, Willie?

Little Willie: If you can reach it.

Gargoyle.

Fool: If I told you Lake Michigan was drying up, what would you say.

Wiseman: Go thou and do likewise.

STILL IN VOGUE.

The following lines from the London Chronicle of more than a hundred years ago, are still being pulled:

"Said his landlord to Thomas, 'Your rent I must raise,

I'm so plaguily pinch'd for the pelf."

"Raise my rent" replied Thomas.

Your honor's main good:

For I never can raise it myself."

SAYINGS — OF — THE 'PROFS'

DO YOU REMEMBER

Prexy's—"My dear young people."
 Dr. Hoyt's—"Anschauung."
 Dr. Ford's—"Now if this Democratic convention will please come to order."
 Miss Alpermann's—"Now chilluns."
 Prof. Pray's—"We the dear people."
 Prof. Barbour's—"Yes, yes, yes."
 Miss Dowling's—"And what not."
 Dr. Harvey's—"Concomitant."
 Prof. Jefferson's—"I don't know."
 Dr. D'Ooge's—"Labor vincet omnia."
 Dean Priddy's—"Take the next _____ pages."

At a teacher's banquet, Pres. McKenny arose and began his address with "Long live the teachers!" He was interrupted by a voice from the rear of the room which inquired, "On What?"

Tell me not in mournful numbers,
 College is but waste of steam:
 For although they may make blunders,
 College men have got the "Bean".

All enjoyment and not sorrow,
 Is the student's life today:
 Work put off until tomorrow,
 Gives new life and time to play.

Art is long and science tedious,
 And our hearts though brave and stout:
 Like unmuffled Fords are beating,
 When the X reports come out.

Life of graduates all remind us,
 We can throw away our time:
 And some day can leave behind us,
 College life, the all sublime.

THE PROFESSOR

I meet my classes day after day
 And week after week
 With an occasional cut.
 I know they get tired of me before the year is out,
 But they don't get half so tired of me
 As I do of them.
 Everyone has his own peculiarities:
 They have to put up with mine,
 But I have to put up with all of their's.
 You would never imagine
 How dumb a class can look
 When its interest is wandering.
 That man on the aisle
 Is still at the dance where he was last night,
 The one in the middle seat in the sixth row
 Is figuring his chances of getting another check
 Out of the old man,
 The one on the rear seat in the corner
 Is frankly a leep,
 While the one who is so absorbed in thought
 Is figuring out his trigonometry
 For the next hour.
 Tonight I have a hundred papers to correct.
 I hope my dinner agrees with me,
 For if it doesn't
 I shall probably flunk half of the class

Miss Lyon, at the May-Day-On-The-Green, "What did they do before the days of 'Rit'?"

Miss Alpermann, "This is more or less of a 'rit-ual' all the way around, isn't it?"

NURSERY RHYMES

AT 10:00 ON WEDNESDAYS.
Oh, say, can you sing, from the start to the end,
What so proudly you stand for when orchestras play it,
When the whole congregation, in voices that blend,
Strike up the grand hymn, then torture and slay it?
How they bellow and shout when they're first starting out,
But "the dawn's early light" finds them floundering about,
"Tis the Star Spangled Banner" they're trying to sing,
But they don't know the words of the precious old thing.

Hark! the "twilight's last gleaming" has some of them stopped,
But the valiant survivors press forward serenely,
To "the ramparts we watched", where some others are dropped,
And the loss of the leaders is manifest keenly,
Then "the rockets' red glare" gives the bravest a scare,
And there are few left to face "the bombs bursting in air"—
"Tis a thin line of heroes that manage to save
The last of the verse and "the home of the Brave".

"Twas in a restaurant they met,
One Romeo and Juliet:
"Twas there he first fell into debt,
For Rom-e-oed what Juli-et.

There was a doctor, and his name was Beck,
He fell in a well and broke his neck.
Served him right—
He should have been at home
Attending the sick, and leaving the well alone.

Now I lay me down to rest,
While thinking of that Physics test:
If I should die before I wake,
That test I shall not have to take.

CHARGE OF THE "LIMB BRIGADE."

Half an inch, half an inch,
Half an inch shorter—
Whether the skirts are for Mother or daughter,
Briefer the dresses grow,
Fuller they ripple now,
While whisking glimpses show
More than they oughter.
Forward the dress parade,
Is there a man dismayed?
No! from the sight displayed
None could be sundered.
Their's not to make remark,
Gaspng from noon till dark—
Clerygman, clubman, clerk,
At the Four Hundred.
The Log (U. S. Naval Academy).

A great amount of bluffing,
Lots of air quite hot
Makes a recitation
Seem like what it's not.

There are meters of accent
And meters of tone:
But the best of all meters
Is to meet her alone.

There are letters of accent,
And letters of tone:
But the best of all letters
Is to—Aw, figure it out for yourself.

Teacher's faults are many
But pupils have but two—
Everything they say and
Everything they do.

HE FOUND OUT.

I know an old codger named Hood,
Who wondered if alcohol would Relieve all his ills,
So he drank a few gills,
And decided that alcohol wood.

If a body see a body
Flunk in a quiz,
And a body help a body,
Is it any body's biz?

WOULDN'T YOU LIKE TO KNOW?
 Where can a man buy a cap for his knee?
 Or a key for a lock of his hair?
 Can your eyes be called an academy
 Because there are pupils there?
 In the crown of your head what jewels are found?
 Who travels the bridge of your nose?
 Could you use in shingling the roof of your mouth,
 The nails on the end of your toes?
 Has he a dual nature like Jekyll and Hyde
 Because each foot has a sole?
 Does his heart beat the blood because it is bad?
 Will it stop when it's good as gold?
 Could the crook in your elbow be sent to jail?
 If so, what did he do?
 Could you sit in the shade of the palm of your hand,
 Or beat on the drum of your ear?
 Does the calf of your leg eat the corn on your toe?
 Then why not grow corn on the ear?
 How can you sharpen your shoulder
 blades?
 I'll be darned if I know, do YOU?

A MODERN HOMER.
 When Homer smote his bloomin' lyre,
 He smote his way to fame:
 But many million simple souls
 Have never heard his name.

When Babe Ruth smites the bloomin' ball,
 And smites it o'er the fence,
 His homer makes the Grecian one
 Resemble thirty cents.

Sewanee Purple.

They had never met B4,
 But what had she 2 care?
 She loved him 10derly,
 He was a 1,000,000aire.

AFTER MISS PEARCE'S BIBLE STUDY CLASS

Barney Oakes to George Shawley: "I'll bet you a dollar you don't know the Lord's Prayer."

George: "I'll take you."

Barney: "Let's hear you give it."

George: "Now I lay me down to sleep—"

Barney: "Gosh! I didn't think you could do it, Here's your dollar."

Reynolds: "This book will do half your work for you."

Doris Ewing: "Give me two of them."

Mrs. Priddy: "Why is it so much easier to talk when I am out of the room?"

Walt Lathers: "We don't like to disturb you."

Miss Downing: "Give me a sentence with present, past and future."

Miss Delaforce: "Don't figure out the future until the present is past."

A lady was congratulating Mrs. Holmes because of the fact that her son, Ducky, was so active on the football team. "Where does your son play on the team?" she inquired. Mrs. H. "I think he is one of the drawbacks."

Mr. Barbour: "Mr. Arbaugh, Have you done any outside reading?"

Bill: "No sir, it's too cold."

Bob Speer: "Why is the Men's Union?"

Yvonne: "I'll bite, why?"

Bob: "Because it needs the dough."

Gladys H.: "Oh Harold, thank you so much for those roses you sent for our party. They looked as if the dew was still on them."

Harold: "Well er—yes there was, but I paid it yesterday."

Mr. Pray: "What lesson do we learn from the attack on the Dardanelles?"

Crossman: "That a strait beat two kings."

Her father: "Can you support a family, young man?"

R. Webb: "But I am only asking for your daughter, Sir."

Schadt: "I want to do something big and clean before I die."

Callahan: "Wash an elephant."

S. Lamb: "Was Rome founded by Romeo?"

Dr. D'Ooge: "No, my girl, it was Juliet who was found dead by Romeo."

Krupp: "I have a suit of clothes for every day in the week."

Mr. McKay: "Where are they?"

Krupp: "These are they that I have on."

Mr. Haig: "What do you expect to be when you get out of college?"

Kirk: "Gray-headed."

Deep gloom and difficulty was spread over Bibbin's face. The experiment required mineral wool. He scratched his head and muttered, "Now what the h—l is mineral wool?" Then the idea dawned. He set out to shear a hydraulic ram.

Whitney Inn Patron: "A little bird told me that you didn't let your coffee settle."

Frank Lee: "A little bird?"

Patron: "Yes, a swallow."

K. Stapleton: "I say dear, where do all those burst tires go to in the end?"

John: "I don't know, but if they go where most people consign them, there must be a terrible smell of burning rubber somewhere."

Scott: "There goes Ike the book-keeper."

Myer: "Book-keeper? Why Ike still goes to school."

Scott: "Yes I know, but he borrowed one of my books a year ago and still has it."

Hazel Edwards: "Are you fond of tea?"

Sickles: "Yes but I like the next letter better."

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT.

Nurse at Health Cottage: You cough more easily this morning.

Patient: I ought to, I practiced nearly all night.

SAFETY.

Prof. McKay: Did you enjoy the "Passing of Arthur?"

Bill Cooney: Yes, but I liked his punting better!

THEORY OF ATHLETICS.

Doc.: A man learns most who begins at the bottom.

Bill Williams: How about the fellow who is learning to swim?

AT HOME IN PONTIAC.

Visitor: And who is that poor inmate?

Attendant: That's a sad case. He was the business manager for the AURORA, and he lost his balance.

AT THE JAPANESE.

Carp: (To girls coming in.) "Have you been waiting long?"

Girls: "About five minutes."

Carp: "That's nothing, I've been waiting here since Christmas."

Red McKnight: "Hey, don't shoot, your gun isn't loaded."

Farrell: "Can't help it the bird won't wait any longer."

Bill Foy: "What do I pay for a marriage license?"

Clerk: "Well, you get it on the installment plan."

Bill: "How's that?"

Clerk: "Two dollars down, and your entire salary every week for the rest of your life."

Arold: "I dreamt I died last night."

Marx: "What woke you up?"

Arold: "The heat."

Miss Putnam: "What is the earliest mention of finance that you know of?"

H. Harris: "Pharoah's receiving a check on the bank of the Red Sea."

Corrigan: "What makes you keep telling me these horrible murder stories?"

The Barber: "I find it helps me a great deal by keeping your hair standing on end."

H. Smith: "What does this author mean by saying that the hero had 'well carved features'?"

S. Starr: "Perhaps he shaved himself."

Prof. Lathers: "How did you like the stage hangings in that Shakespeare Show?"

Russell B.: "I didn't see any hangings; they killed them with the sword."

Miss Pearce: (In Bible Study). "Why are you looking so thoughtful, Mr. Bemis?"

Bemis: "I was wondering how Jonah got away with it when his wife asked him where he had been so long and he told her a whale had swallowed him."

Marie (Ingalls) After reading the "Landing of the Pilgrims" to her pupils asked each of them to draw from their imaginations a picture of Plymouth Rock. One little fellow hesitated and then raised his hand. "Well what is it?" asked his teacher. "Please, teacher, do you want a hen or a rooster?"

Corbin: "Did you filter this liquid?"

McCloskey: "No sir, I was afraid it would not stand the strain."

GENERAL-JOKES

Mr. Brown and his family were standing in front of the lion cage.

"John," said Mrs. Brown, "If these animals were to escape, whom would you save first, me or the children?"

"Me," answered John without hesitation.
—Ex.

FORCED COMPLAINT.

"I must say those biscuits are fine," exclaimed the young husband.

"How could you say those were fine biscuits?" inquired his mother, when they were alone.

"I didn't say they were fine, mother, I merely said I must say so."

—Boston Transcript.

Upper Classman: "How many studies are you carrying?"

Fresh: "I'm carrying one and dragging four."
—Milton College Review.

She: Would you die for me, dearest?

He: No, mine is an undying love.

—Retina.

"So that's Mrs. Jones, is it? And what was her maiden name?"

"Her maiden aim was to get married, of course."
—Gargoyle.

Beggar: Kind sir will you give me a dime for a bed?

Cautious Man: Let's see the bed first.—Ex.

"Why did the salt shaker?"

"Because he saw the spoon holder and the lemon squeezer."

"Do you think a girl should learn to love before twenty?"

"No, that's too large an audience."

Can you see the pretty girl?
The nice man can see the pretty girl
She has dropped her handkerchief
Will the nice man pick up the handkerchief?
The nice man will not—he's been pinched before,

For the pretty girl is a lady cop.
—Sun Dodger.

Landlady: I think you had better board elsewhere.

Student: Yes, I will admit I frequently have.

Landlady: Have what?

Student: Had better board elsewhere.
—Gargoyle.

IN LIKE A LION, OUT LIKE A LAMB.

The burglar had entered the house as quietly as possible, but his shoes were not padded, and they made some noise. He had just reached the door of the bedroom when he heard someone moving in the bed, as if about to get up, and he paused.

The sound of a woman's voice floated to his ears. "If you don't take off your boots when you come into this house," she said, "there's going to be trouble, and a lot of it. Here it's been raining for three hours, and you dare to tramp over carpets with your muddy boots on. Go downstairs and take them off this minute!"

He went downstairs without a word, but he didn't take off his boots. Instead he went straight out into the night again, and the pal who was waiting for him saw a tear glisten in his eye.

"I just can't bear to rob this house" he said, "it reminds me so of home."

One man (talking to a man under a wrecked automobile) Have an accident?

Man under car: No, thanks. Just had one and don't care for another.

Teacher: Some terrible things can be caught from kissing.

Bobby: Right! You ought to see the poor fish my sister caught.

GIRLS WILL BE GIRLS.

Jack: Did you call her up?
George: Yes, but she was not down when I called up.
Jack: Are you going to call her up when she gets down?
George: Yes, when she gets up.
Jack: Well, call her down when she's up for not being down when you called up.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE.

"I've a horrible toothache and want something to cure it."
"You don't need any medicine. I had a toothache yesterday and my wife kissed me and so consoled me that the pain soon passed away. Why don't you try that trick?"
"I think I will. Is your wife home now?"

HIS FINANCIAL DEGREE.

Neighbor: So your son got his B. A. and his M. A.
Father: Yes, but his P—A still supports him.

LOOKING FORWARD

They had just become engaged.
"I shall love," she coed, "to share all your griefs and troubles."
"But, darling," he purred, "I have none."
"No," she agreed: "but I mean when we are married."
—Dallas News.
"Do I bore you?" asked the mosquito, politely, as he sunk a half-inch shaft into the man's arm.
"Not at all" replied the man, squashing him with a book. "How do I strike you?"

THE SUN AND MOON OF PROHIBITION.

Speaker: Thank God, the country has gone dry. It will bring sunshine to many a home.
Skeptic: Yes, and moonshine too, brother.

"Don't you know you are singing off the key?" growled the leader of the Glee Club.
"Of course I am," replied the man who never admits he is wrong. "In my opinion the song was written in the wrong key in the first place."
—Ex.

HE KNEW.

Sunday-School Teacher: Where do all little boys and girls go who do not put their pennies in the collection box?

Pupil: Please m'm to the movies.

"Marie told me that your hair was dyed."
"It's false!"
"That's what I told her."

"My! that was a funny look you gave me."
"You have a funny look, allright, but I never gave it to you."

"What's the tooth brush for?"
"That's my class pin."
"Your class pin?"
"Ye, I graduated from Colgate."

"I heard your wife ran away with a boarder."
"No, it was only a (rumor) roomer."

Fond Mother: Did you see my sunburst last night?

Guest: No, but I thought he would if he ate any more.
