a man with a past

A growing university no doubt, needs a man with the potential to initiate and expediate this expansion. President since 1965, Harold Sponberg has doubled enrollment, constructed sixty million dollars in buildings, instituted administrative and instructional computer programs and also a research program appropriating one million dollars in grants annually.

President Sponberg received his B.A., with honors, at Gustavus Adolphus College in Minnesota. His M.A. in Psychology and Rhetoric at the University of Minnesota and Ph.D. in History and Philosophy of Ed. at Michigan State University.

Harold Sponberg came to us from Washburn University, Topeka, Kansas, where he also presided as President. Among other past experiences he was Vice President for Academic Affairs at Northern Michigan University, Executive Director of National 4-H Club Foundation and Director of University Extension and Education Placement at Michigan State University.

As if the feats above are not enough the President also has a wife and five children. Who says a boy born and raised on a farm in New Richland, Minnesota, can't go a long way?

the love of learning rule mankind”

On September 18, 1973, Eastern Michigan University received a charter membership from Phi Kappa Phi, a nationwide honor society.

This is a society with a broader outlook and purpose, to reward those of high achievement in all fields of higher education. Phi Kappa Phi recognizes the acquirement of excellence in faculty members and students alike. The society strives for truth in its motto; “Let the love of learning rule mankind.”

Dean Albert P. Marshall, M.A., Academic Services, "My door is always open to anyone who thinks I can help them...I respect all people."

"the buck stops with me"

Every spirit, aim, and interest of a university must function in perfect unison in order to provide high standards of education.

Dean Ralph F. Gilden, M.A., Admissions and Financial Aids, "As Dean of Admissions and Financial Aids I feel my accountability to all undergraduate students at Eastern Michigan University does not terminate after a student has been admitted to this university. To each student I have a trusteeship and obligation to see that each one may obtain the best possible education."

All entities must be directed to a single goal; excellence. The deans at Eastern are working together to unite the separate and distinct parts of this institution into a solid and complete whole.

Dean Sandy MacLean, Ed. D., Students Office, "I enjoy my work. It provides variety, stimulation, and a sense of satisfaction. Naturally students have mixed feelings about the Dean of Students. One time I'm called on to be their 'ombudsman' or 'spokesman' and the next to expediate discipline. At first the roles may seem to be a contradiction-not really-they can be complimentary."

Dean Peter T. Hountras, Ph.D., Counseling Center, "Students feel that their problems are not important enough to bring to an administrator. That is not true. I encourage students to come in and see me or any member of my staff. President Harry S. Truman said it, but it is true. "The buck stops with me." The administrator is responsible for what happens, and doesn't happen, in his office."

Dean Allen Myers, Ph.D., College of Education, "The role of administrators in the college is to facilitate the development and operation of the numerous programs through liason with public schools and other agencies and through coordination of the efforts of diverse units within the university. Though administrators have fewer contacts with students, their purpose is the same as that of all faculty . . . the welfare of students."

Dean Donald F. Drummond, Ph.D. College of Arts and Sciences, "Students always receive friendly treatment here . . . I value the contacts that I can have with them."

"the overall purpose of these

Dean Earl A. Roth, Ed.D., College of Business, "The complex nature of our business, economic and social system makes it imperative that people learn to live, work and understand each other so that they may cope with the great unresolved issues of our times."

responsibilities is to improve campus life and student welfare"

Dr. L. Sandy Maclean

youth is a beautiful dream...

... on whose brightness books shed a blinding dust. Will ever the day come when the wise link the joy of knowledge to youth's dream? Will ever the day come when Nature becomes the teacher of man, humanity his book and life his school? Youth's joyous purpose cannot be fulfilled until that day comes. Too slow is our march toward spiritual elevation, because we make so little use of youth's ardor.

new paths in psychology

Out in the fields. That's where E.M.U. psychology students have been found this year, with the initiation of Field Setting 370 into the Psychology Department. No bother with textbooks, tests or papers. They also gained insight from interaction with patients at Ypsilanti State Hospital, Plymouth Center for Human Development and Wayne County Child Development Center.

Interested in sex? Who isn't! Then, one might consider looking into Psychology of Sex 240, taught by Dr. Judy Gallatin, added to the curriculum this year along with Introductory Psychology 102, under the direction of Dr. Peter Holmes.

Then again, if teaching is your thing a program has been instituted for you to gain experience teaching college level psychology for two semester credit hours.

The department has expanded to twenty-four full-time faculty members. New faces were Peter Benson, Ph.D., Steve Vincent, Ph.D., and Joe Fitzgerald, who is presently working on his doctoral dissertation and will shortly be receiving his Ph.D. from West Virginia University.

Don Walker, Senior, studies behavior modification in rats.

*ich liebe dich,
te anio, je t' aime*

Que Pasa? This is what's happening in the Language Department. New courses this year are French Words in English 125, taught by Henry Owens and Introduction to Language 103, taught by Ana McCoy.

The German and Spanish classes have a fifteen minute radio program that is broadcasted from WEMU at 5:45 every Wednesday. This program is a reading of newly published literary works by foreign authors.

There is also a lynch program for French and Spanish students at McKenny Union. Students have the opportunity to gather together here and practice speaking their language under more pleasant conditions. Keeping more in the German tradition, instead of lunch, students gather at Hungry Charley's for a beer hour. This year a program to study in Munich has also been made available to E.M.U. German Students.

Henry Owens, presently head of the department, will be retiring at the end of the year. Rumors are running rampant but no one knows for sure who will be filling his shoes.

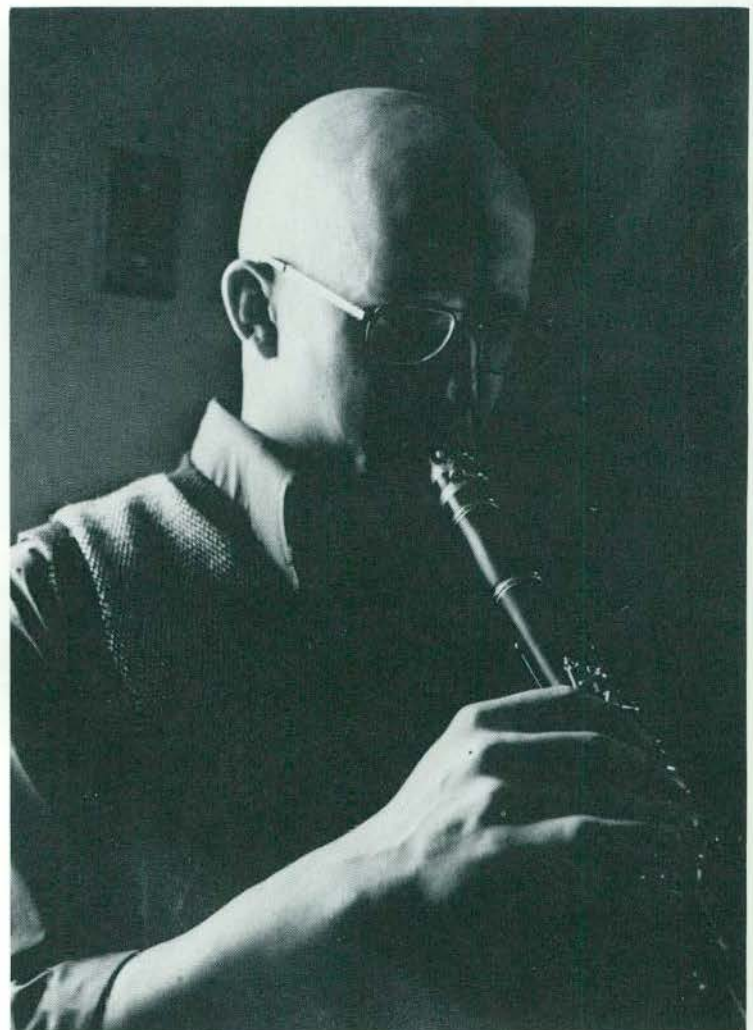

One of the year's grandest events was the performance of The Detroit Symphony Orchestra in Residence, sponsored by the Music Department. Students had the opportunity to interact and perform with members of the orchestra. Over one-thousand children from Southeastern Michigan were given a free symphony.

In past years the Music Department and the Office of Religious Life have had a traditional Christmas tree lighting ceremony. This year, in the name of conserving energy, the tradition turned to candle lighting ceremonies.

The department was pleased to announce this year that a new curriculum for Bachelor of Music in Performance, was initiated. The feelings are that this will attract many music-minded students into the University.

This year the Speech and Dramatic Arts Department initiated a new Arts Management Curriculum. This gives the student interested in theatre, art museum or gallery management the opportunity to learn and gain experience in this field.

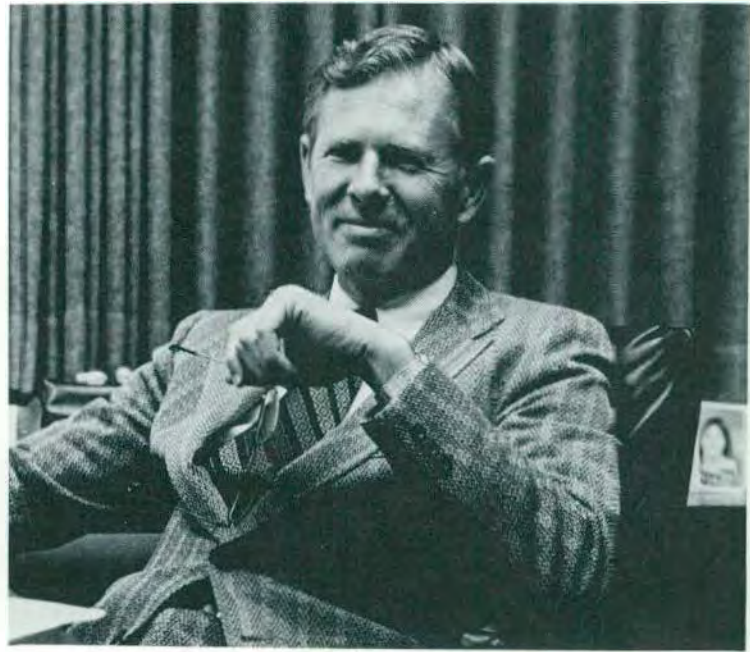

A new minor, Radio, Television and Film, was also introduced into the department. Introduction to Film 245, was also developed and added to the curriculum.

nature a social animal*

Aristotle once said, "Man is by nature a social animal, and an individual who is unsocial naturally and not accidentally is either beneath our notice or more than human."

Research and study of man and his relationship with society is being done in the Sociology Department with this year's tour of the Ypsilanti State Hospital, sponsored for students to observe patients and learn about the Ypsilanti State Patient Care Program.

The department also offered a number of new classes for the sociology student: Sociology of Sex Roles 444, Law and Society 408, and Sociology of Gerontology 311.

A new major in Anthropology was the result of growing interests in that area and a Criminal Justice and Criminology curriculum was added.

down-to-earth studies take new directions

Liberalized requirements for the Geography—Geology major were installed in that department. "This will give students freedom to choose classes that are relevant to them," explained Department Head, Ross N. Pearson. There was a change in title and class description to offer relevance to the conscientious student.

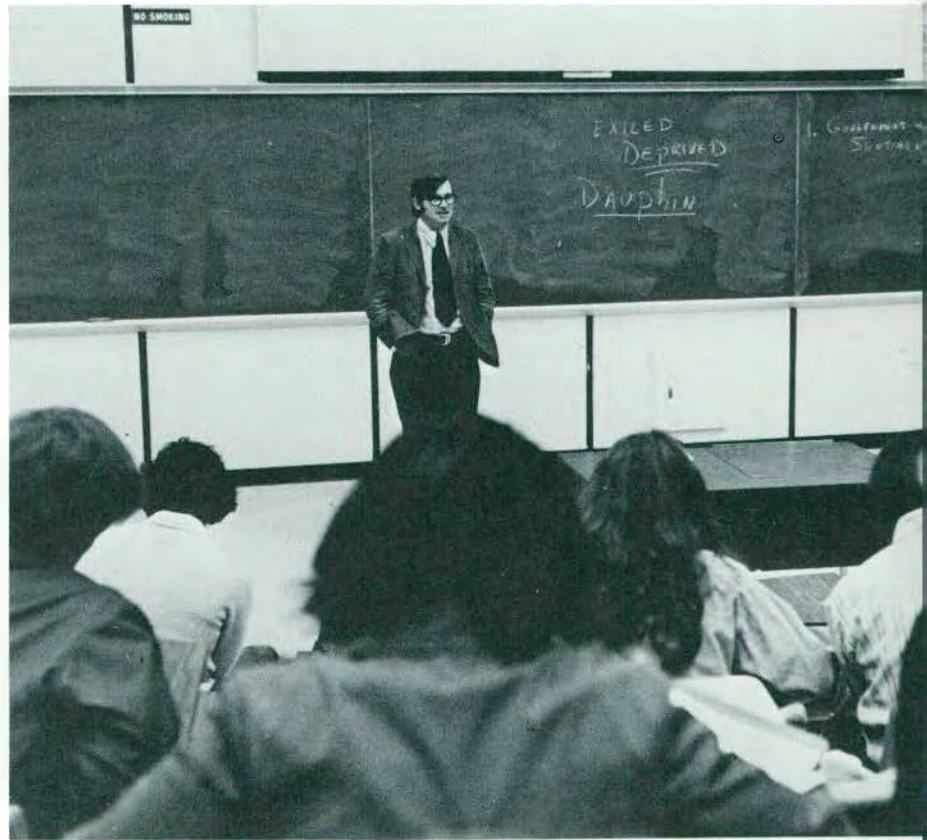

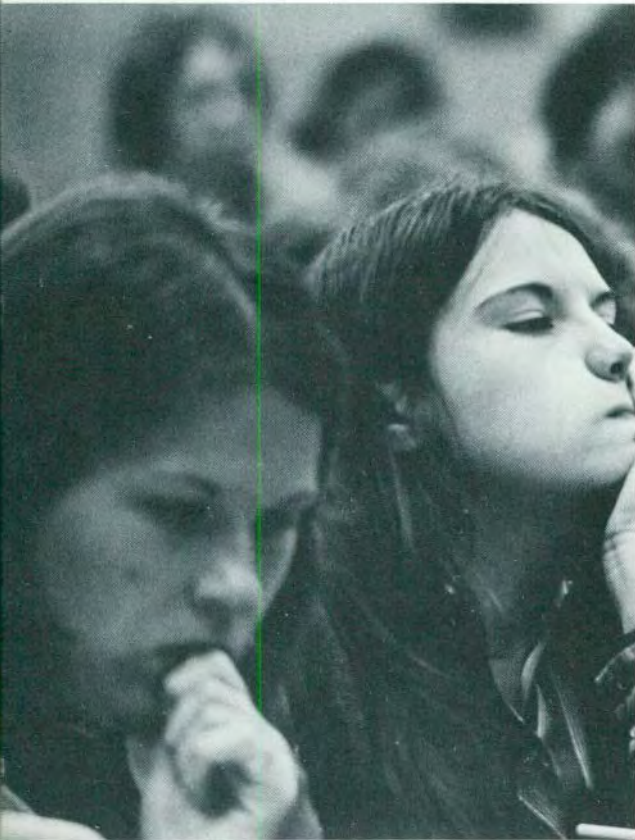

The department also prepared students for non-teaching jobs since a majority of graduates are now directing their energies toward government agencies and city planning jobs.

New courses to correspond with this were Computer Mapping and Air Photo, Internal and Remote Sensing. A graduate course was offered to undergraduates called "Special Topics".

Each semester a new course was instructed by the departments' specialists, during fall semester professor Lawrence Ogden instructed Environmental Geology and, Medical Geology, during winter term. Andrew Nazzaro instructed.

classroom complement

Nancy Anderson, Senior— "I guess we have to have some kind of a system, but I hate to work for an A or a B, that type of thing."

Grades. Grades. Grades. Everyone has something to say about grades. What do they accomplish? Are they valid? Do they get in the way? Should they be abolished?

E.M.U. students respond to these questions.

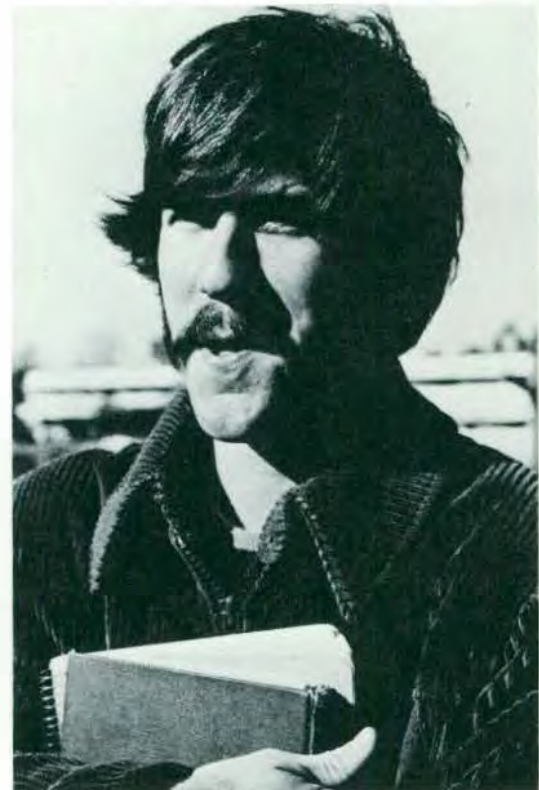

Debbie Vowell, Freshman— "Grades let you know where your standing."

infamous GPA

Brian Toth, Junior—"Too competitive, especially in business."

Ed Cowin, Senior— "Personally I have no way to change it."

Margie Walder, Junior— "They are a necessary evil."

Rosanne Insalaco, Sophomore— "Well, they have always been, but I wish we didn't have them."

Marcy Gross, Sophomore— "It would relieve a lot of pressure if grades were abolished. Students would also be allowed to work more independently and with more freedom in their chosen area."

Doug Dicks, Senior— "I'd like to see them abolished. It would help you more in the future, now you are learning what your teachers want you to so you can pass the class. Instead, you should be working to broaden your spectrum."

Doris Smith, Junior— "I don't like them. The efforts of the individual student should be taken into consideration."

"teachers are what make the class"

Randy Mattran, Freshman— "I've never tried hard to make them. I have mostly lecture classes. One time I tried to talk to my teacher after class but I had to wait for fifteen minutes, so it didn't work."

Richard Bartlett, Senior— "Relations definitely improve as you get older. Teachers should do more."

Twila Senenko, Senior— "They aren't very strong. In your Junior year you start communicating more."

Gene Everhart, Freshman— "Well, you have to make the relationship. You have to know your instructors and they have to understand your problems."

Andrew Perez, Senior— "I think at this university relations are good. Professors have office hours and you can always see them if you want to. At other universities they have assistants teaching the classes."

Probably one of the most important aspects of a university is its faculty members. It has been said that a teacher can make or break a class.

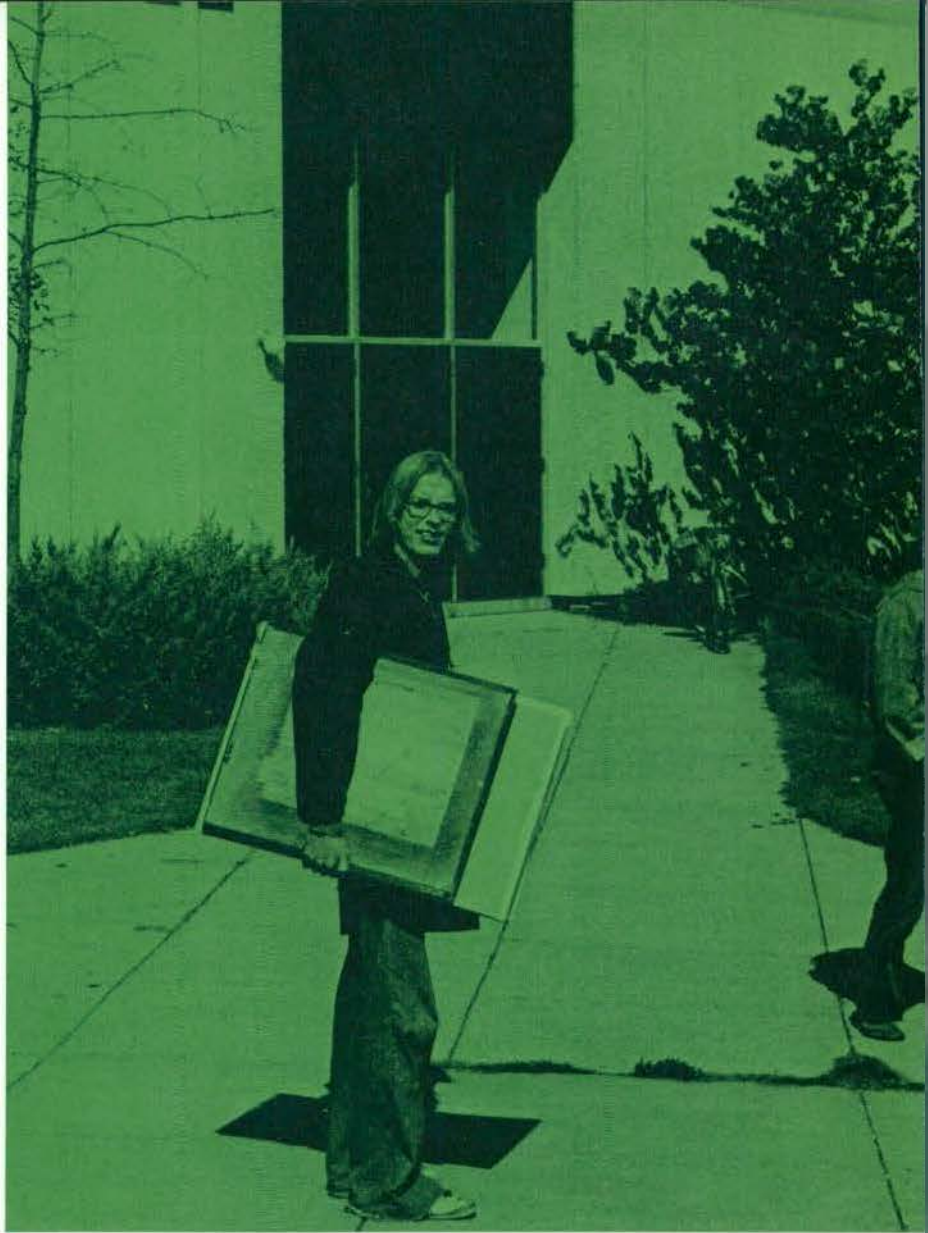

In a school as large as Eastern, a student can sometimes find himself lost in the classroom crowd. The following are a few E.M.U. student-expressed views about faculty-student relations.

Craig White, Sophomore— "They could be better . . . sometimes I think we're just a number to them instead of students."

Kitten Florian, Freshman— "Teachers are what make the class, but in big classrooms you don't know them."

fantasy and fads at EMU

Right and bottom- Tennis shoes and amateur track star abilities are the only requirements for participation in the most free fad that has hit E.M.U. this year; Streaking. With its share of streaking firsts, Eastern goggled as Lady Godiva, Wheels, Liberated Librarian and numerous other students cavorted uninhibitedly across campus. One student's reaction: "Well it's about time we got down to the bare essentials."

Below- Whether it's a Schwinn 10 speed or a rusty clunker, bikes have brought E.M.U.'s campus to life. Lazy legs, spreading rears and outrageous gas prices have shocked students into hauling out their wheels and start pedaling to and from class. The energy saved equals a few pounds lost.

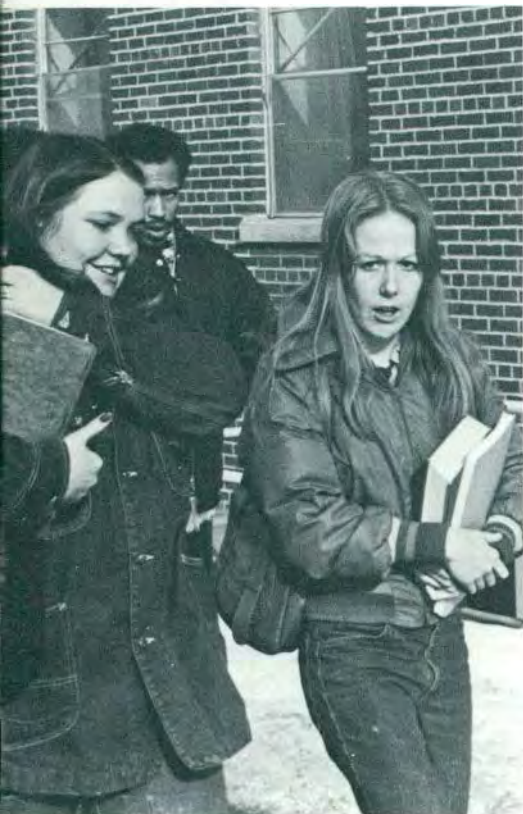

Above- Grease made a sliding comeback at Eastern Michigan with the revival of the Fifties. This was the year of short, slick styles and fast, fancy fads. Students saw the return of the Bop, ruby lipstick, and tightly-fitted clothes. The hit movie, American Graffiti, brought out of the closet alot of remember-whens, like gulping goldfish and cruising in Dad's coupe. The question: Just how great really were "those good old days"?

Left- Karate Kraze or Kung Fu Flu? Students have been kicking and chopping for fun and for fitness. Either way, self-defense is making its gains in the field of fads for 1974 at E.M.U.

just hangin' out

Webster offers no help as to a definition to the term, but we all know what hangin' out is, and when we are doin' it. Could be rappin', could be tokin', could be cruisin' for burgers, could be sittin' in a local dive, or just plain HANGIN' OUT. Really don't need a reason. It's when there's nothin' to do. Just sit there and wait for IT to happen.

Comfort Ovebanji, Freshman- "I feel there is an energy crisis, but it is worse in Massachusetts than in Michigan. All the heat was turned off in Boston, I am warmer here."

the power play

Whether or not the last drop of fuel in the earth's storage tanks is foreseeable in the near future, we the consumers are being forced to make cut backs.

Eastern Michigan University and all of its components are being caught in the crunch to conserve. Building thermostats have been cut to sixty-eight degrees and use of University vehicles is being limited to necessary travel.

Most affected by the crisis though, is an important aspect of E.M.U.: the vast numbers of commuters. With some of these people traveling approximately sixty miles or more a day, the gas costs add up. With no relief from the oil industry in sight, all we can do is wonder and sit, or walk, or pedal, or...

Laura Brown, Freshman- "I think it is good, only for our generation to learn that there can be hard times. Our life has been too easy."

Robbie Currie, Senior- "I am not worried, but I do try to conserve. I drive in a car pool to school. If gas is rationed I will have to quit school."

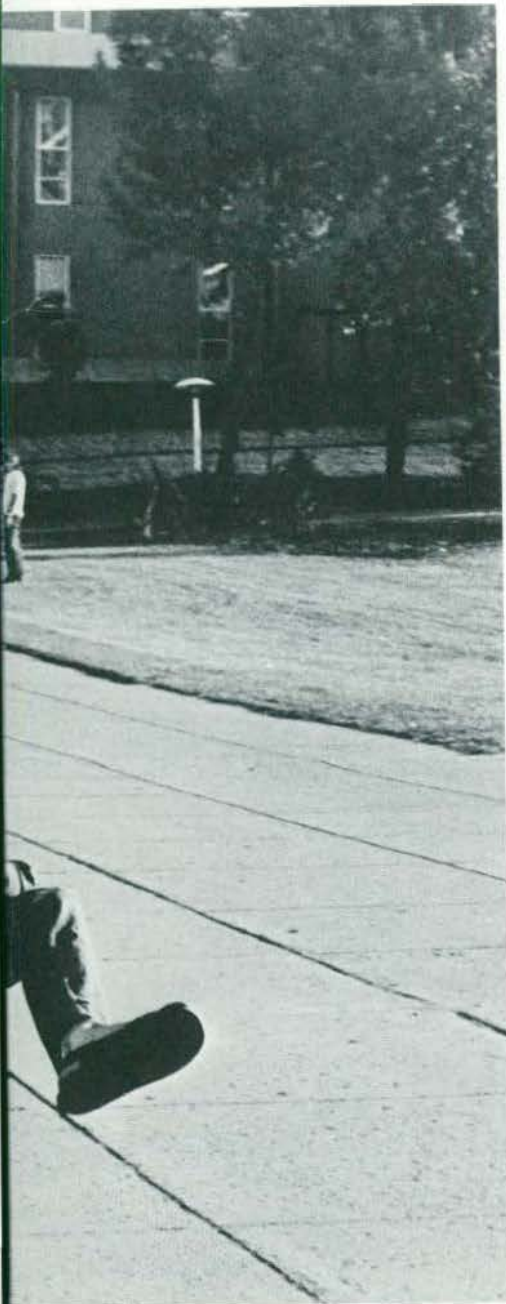

Kenneth Anthony, Freshman- "We are using the fireplace more and I drive 50 miles on the freeway."

Lenord Knight, Sophomore- "It is a farce. Although transportation is harder to come by because gas is harder to get and is more expensive."

Harold Sponberg

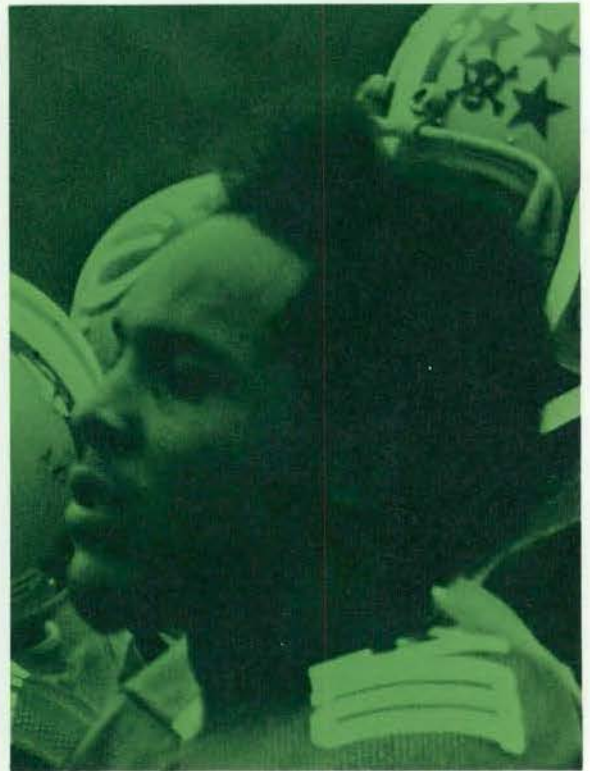

Dr. Harold Sponberg resigned in the winter term of 1974 after eight years of vigorous administration as the President of Eastern Michigan University. During his administration many changes evolved on the face of the campus. On October 24, 1969, simultaneous dedication of Rynearson Stadium, Pray-Harold, Mark Jefferson and Dorm Complex #3 (Towers) took place. Also under Sponberg the remodeling and reconstruction of McKenny Union, Quirk Theatre, Ford Hall, Roosevelt and Brown-Munson were completed. Total construction costs amounted to 48,099,419 dollars for 1,806,132 square feet of buildings. Eastern Michigan has seen, under Sponberg, The re-emergence of our athletic power — EMU teams won 16 national championships between 1966 and 1972. Scholastic improvement includes the addition of 27 new curriculum programs in all areas of study.

Let it be remembered that the 1973 Huron gridiron gladiators, setting new season records for points scored (265) and total offense with 3315 yards, provided plenty of excitement in battling to a 6-4 record.

Junior fullback Mike Strickland was again the Huron's running game with 1,105 yards. He also caught passes to account for 1,511 total yards and 9 touchdowns.

Senior quarterback, Frank Kolch and Houston Booth, along with senior receivers Reggie Garrett and Jim Grace, led an Eastern aerial show that was the best ever in EMU history; completing 120 of 253 passes for 1,779 yards and 20 touchdowns. Wide Receiver Reggie Garrett was sensational while grabbing 43 passes for 693 yards and 11 touchdowns, all season records. Co-captain Jim Grace showed people that Eastern still uses its tight end to catch passes, as he snatched 25 for 436 yards and 3 touchdowns.

After eight seasons as an assistant football coach at the University of Michigan, George Mans is the new head football coach at Eastern. Mans was named Feb. 27, 1974, to succeed Dan Boistine, who resigned to take over the reigns of the Detroit Wheels of the newly formed World Football League.

Coach Mans comes to E.M.U. with a fine reputation in college football, and the enthusiasm shown, thus far, by his staff promises a strong team for years to come.

Kathy Mullen — "I would not join a sorority. It seems like too many obligations . . . I don't have the time because I carry too many credits."

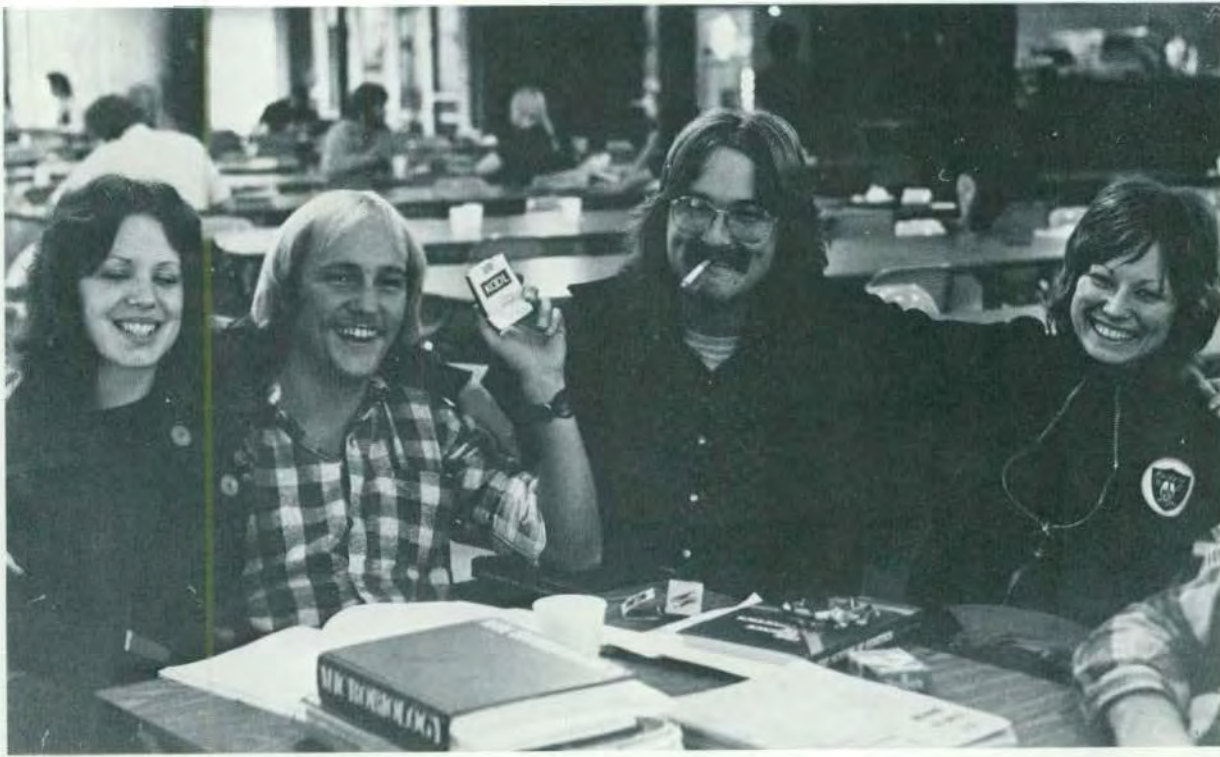

Randy Longmuir — sophomore, "I'm sort of prejudiced because I'm in a fraternity they're a good experience."

Dave Ryder — junior, "Personally, I don't like fraternities, they're for people who can't find social activities on their own."

a cup of hemlock?

Muriel Jones — senior, Sociology “I don’t like sororities at all. It puts people in cliques.”

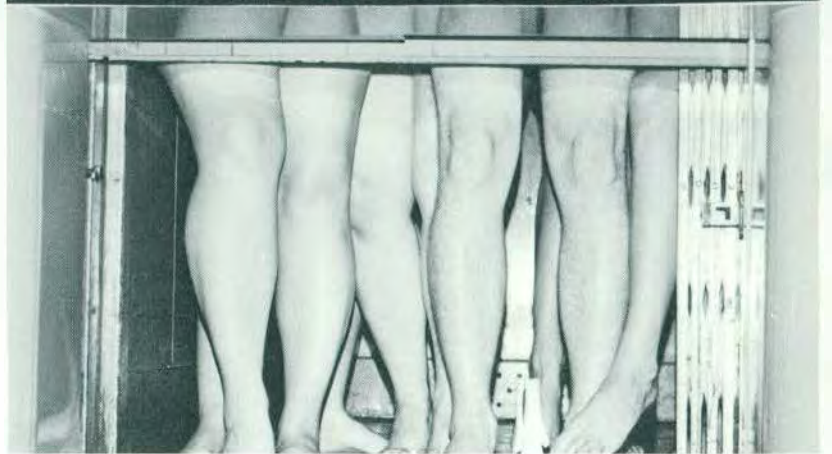

Steve Parker — “For brotherhood, you meet people that think the way I do and you like to have a good time with them.”

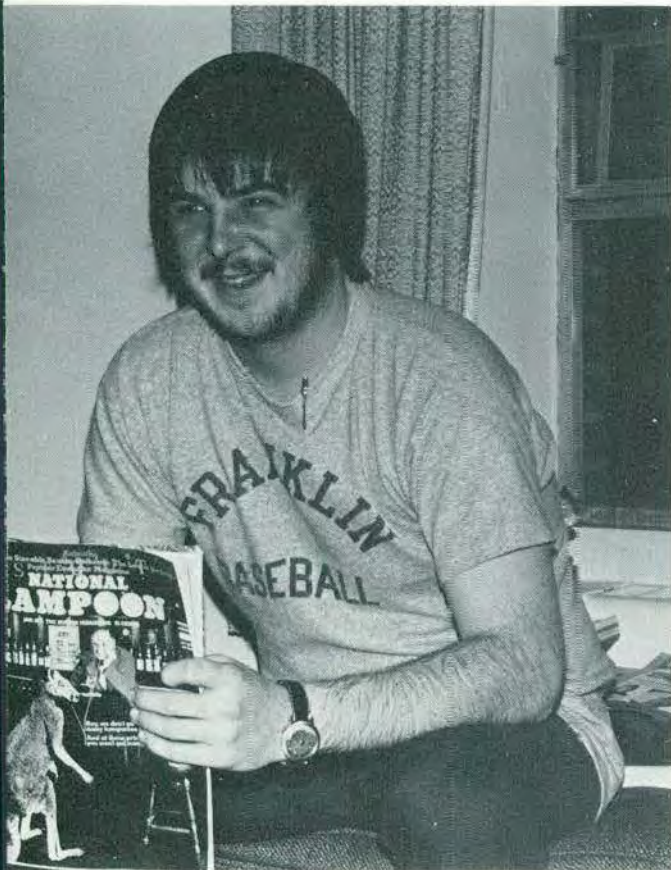

Denise Murav — “I don’t know that much about fraternities and sororities, but . . . They have a negative connotation in this day and age, so you don’t have an interest.”

Hey come on over,
Bring me a beer!
Fresh out of money
But I loaded up to here.
Don't pass the glass,
But just pass the jug.
We figure the only way to drink is either all or none.
But we'll be done just as fast as a beaver builds a dam.
Bet your bottom dollar,
Try us if you can!
But whatever you do
You'd better watch out . . .
'Cause we're all from Kappa Beaver Sigma Yes, we're beavers all the way.

"discrimination has gone underground"

"It's discrimination but you can't call it that or prove it, there are laws against it, to prevent discrimination is part of the constitution." Yet with less than one thousand minority people in the entire university system, the Office of Minority Affairs has its hands full fighting red tape and prejudices existing on campus. "Students run into the problem of surviving on campus; academically and financially (and housing). These are the kinds of needs which arise in an environment where racial justice is essential in higher education."

The office extends beyond being a service to resolve conflicts. It provides an awareness of the campus community and of what new learning experiences are available. A tribute to Black Women, Minority Expo, and the Native American Pow-wow were successful events sponsored by the Office of Minority Affairs.

WEMU is a non-commercial station operating ten and one-half hours a day, seven days a week. The FM station, 88.1 on the dial, though basically community oriented, broadcasts many university affairs, including basketball and football games, fine art programs and news in student government.

WHUR is solely run by students and strictly campus affiliated. It runs all weekend straight and daily, four to twelve on 640 AM. Serving as a regular rock station, WHUR features the "Top 40".

Terry Tubbs – senior, “I’m totally aware of what the student government is doing but I don’t think the administration is ready to work with them.”

Mary Schmitt – sophomore, Student Senator, “Senate and its committees provides a good medium for interested students to work with. I think we’re like a pseudo government. People aren’t aware of what we do . Our goal is to make students realize we are on campus for their benefit.”

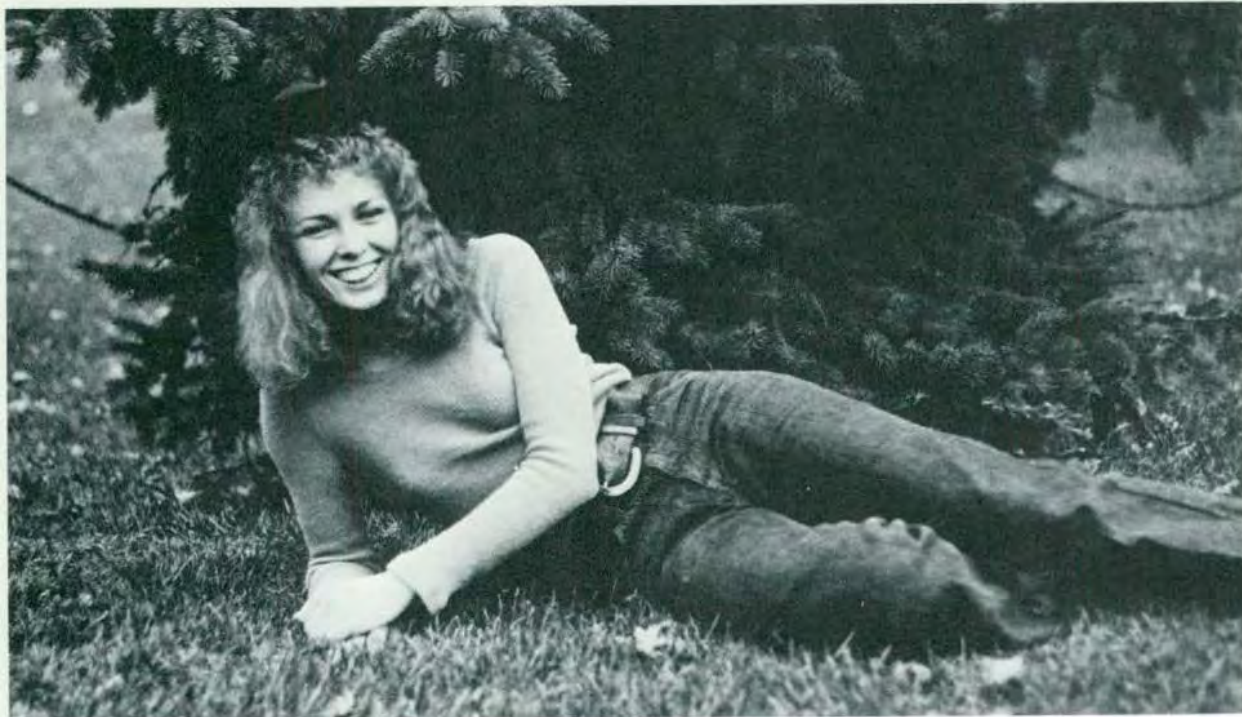

Janie Steiner – junior, Special Ed. “I just, um, I think its a big farce... I don’t know, its a game.”

Barbara Foster – sophomore, “I think the student government is really trying. The Faculty – Evaluation Book they made up is good . . . what they’re doing – they’re trying to do for the students . . . They’re not a money making organization.”

Larry Heads – On student gov’t, “I don’t pay much attention to it. I’ve been in too many schools. I spend most of my time on campus doing the things I have to do, I’m a commuter.”

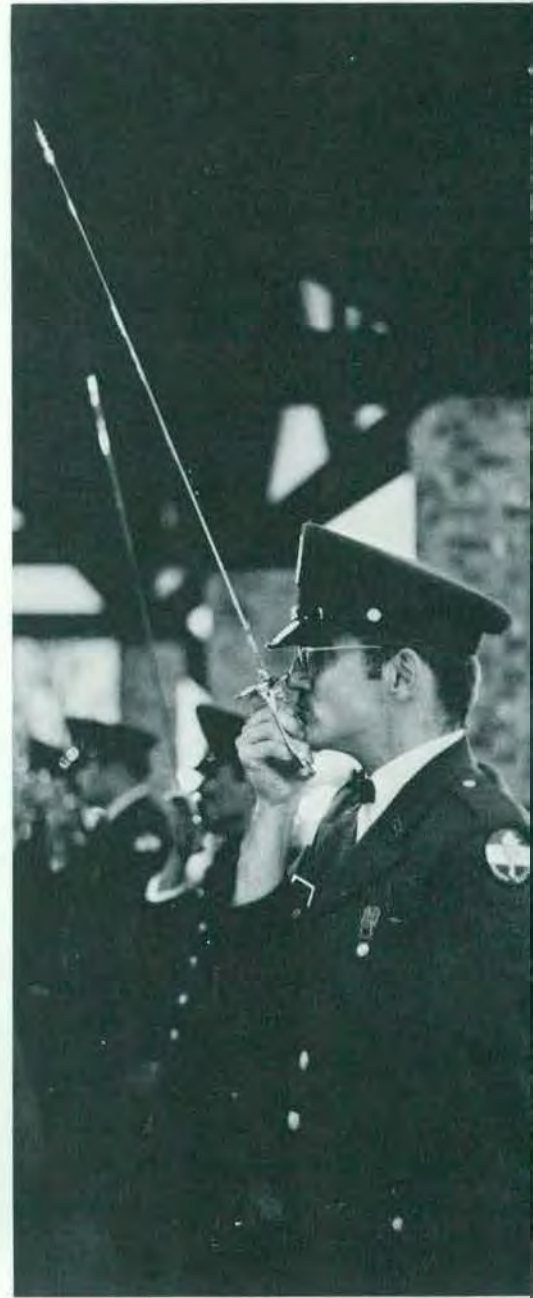

Sue Rule – freshman, “I don’t know a whole lot about the student government. In some respects, I think they’re doing a good job. . . I don’t hear that much about them, they need more publicity. I never hear what they’re doing.”

the "new army"

The Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps. is the source of the new Army's upcoming leadership. With the easing of restrictions and the increases of pay, the Army offers opportunities for a variety of people! The ROTC gives the military career minded person a chance to start his active service as an officer. There are many different organizations to appeal to the individual including, the Association of the United States Army, the Scabbard and Blade (the military fraternity), the Huron Guard, the Huronettes Coed Drill Team, the Cadet Waves Club and the Rifle Team.

I'll say good-bye...

"For every star that falls to earth
a new one glows.
For every dream that fades away
a new one grows.
When things are not what they would seem
You must keep following your dream.
So while my heart is still believing
I'll say good-bye."

After approximately sixteen years of schooling, it is time to start a new life. The life of a businessman who comes home after working eight hours and then is able to relax. Or maybe the life of a schoolteacher who will have papers to correct. Whatever it may be it will be a challenge and we wish you luck.

there are people I remember from the pages of my past

Total dedication by a staff working long hours and fighting deadline hassles, brought about the 1974 Aurora. By focusing on the people-aspect of the University rather than the physical build, the Aurora took off in a new direction giving the yearbook a more personal quality.

I would like to extend special thanks to Hunter Publishing Company and to our Sales Representative Betty Uxa. Ms. Uxa gave much help in service as well as moral support. A special thanks also goes to Mr. Jerry Schnieder and Mr. Sam Fields of Delma Studios for their assistance to the Senior picture program.

Appreciation goes to the Echo Staff for the great deal of time and effort spent in helping the Aurora.

I would also like to thank the following photographers who, with their work, made the color section possible: Tom Gray, Ernie Milligan, Bob Pacioni, Nancy Shawn and Greg Weiss.

This book means a lot to me. Through its production I have watched a group of unique personalities come together and create a beautiful piece of journalism. Their spirited pride and ambition lead to success in meeting high goals and standards. They were a fantastic bunch.
